SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTIONS FOR CONCURRENCE

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION SERIAL No. 126

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 11, 1945.

There are many persons within the Commonwealth who, although skilled in the driving of automobiles, are denied the right so to do on account of physical disabilities which make the procurement of liability and property damage insurance impossible.

The return of fighting men from the battle fronts of the world will greatly increase this number, and the inability of many of those who deserve every possible privilege and opportunity of enjoyment, to secure such insurance, will prevent their full use of automobiles.

It is not possible nor would it be advisable to compel insurance companies to accept such risks which in their experience are hazardous.

Many companies in Pennsylvania writing liability and property damage insurance have lately developed the "Pennsylvania Automobile Assigned Risks Plan" for the voluntary handling of liability and property damage insurance on persons who have come under the provisions of the Financial Responsibility Law.

The formation of a similar plan for the voluntary handling of liability and property damage insurance on persons physically handicapped, might be the means of affording such persons the coverage necessary to allow them to enjoy the privilege of driving an automobile, either for pleasure or in the carrying on of a business; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), By the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the Insurance Commissioner of the Commonwealth and the Secretary of Revenue of the Commonwealth are requested to meet and consult with representatives of the various casualty companies doing business within the Commonwealth, in an attempt to arrive at and formulate a plan for the organization of a Pennsylvania Assigned Risks Plan for the insuring of physically handicapped persons; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the Insurance Commissioner and to the Secretary of Revenue.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

Resolved (if the House concur), That it shall be the duty of the Joint State Government Commission (hereinafter called the Commission), in consultation with organizations of recognized national standing, to cause to be made a thorough and impartial study in order to determine the relative responsibilities and burdens which should, in equity, be placed on the Commonwealth and on political subdivisions in respect to financing the cost of the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of the highways of the Commonwealth, including all state and local highways, the amount of state-aid for highway purposes which should be granted by the Commonwealth to political subdivisions for highway purposes, and generally to develop a sound and scientific financial highway program for the Commonwealth and her political subdivisions; and for such purposes the Commission shall have power and its duty shall be to engage the services of not less than three individuals of recognized standing in the fields of highway economics and highway engineering, together with such assistants and clerks as may be deemed necessary by the Commission.

All departments of the State government and all political subdivisions shall assist the Commission in every possible way by making available and furnishing such data, records, information and advice relative to the study provided for by this resolution as may be deemed necessary by the Commission. For these purposes the Commission shall have the power to compel the appearances of witnesses and the production of books, papers and records, and to issue proper subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses on the production of books, papers, records and any and all other writings deemed necessary for the fulfillment of the duties prescribed in this resolution.

The Commission shall constitute and provide for the appointment of advisory committees, consisting of administrative officials of the State and local governments and of the representatives of organized groups having direct interest in and affected by the development of streets and highways, to aid in the study of the problems presented by this resolution.

The Commission shall make a full and complete report of its findings and recommendations to The General Assembly not later than March 1, 1947, together with such drafts of legislation as may be necessary to carry such recommendation into effect.

The costs and expenses of said study and report thereon shall be paid for out of special allocation of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) to the Commission from the Motor License Fund.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 349, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for payment to Somerset County Institution District to reimburse said district on account of certain property damages under agreement between the Commonwealth and the institution district and authorizing the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to pay certain moneys into the State Treasury for the taking of certain lands

Whereas The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by an Act of Assembly approved the twenty-ninth day of September one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight was authorized to take over without consideration the property of all mental institutions conducted by the various county institution districts with a provision for the division of any lands used both for mental patients and indigent persons and

Whereas The Somerset County Institution District owned a large area of land upon which were erected valuable buildings for the care of indigents and mental patients and for farm purposes and the district was conducting a farm and other industries and was maintaining its own patients and others under contract from other counties and

Whereas Prior to the assumption of control by the Commonwealth of the mental institution the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission condemned a portion of the premises and constructed its highway over the land to the great injury of the Somerset County Institution District in its ownership management and control of the same and

Whereas Viewers duly appointed upon evidence furnished by the Commission and the Somerset County Institution District found that the property had been damaged by the construction of the highway and awarded damages in the sum of fourteen thousand three hundred twenty-five dollars ($14,325.00) to be paid to the parties entitled thereto (to which sum the addition of an amount of six hundred fifty dollars ($650.00) should be added for land taken for a restaurant and service station being the value agreed upon for same) and

Whereas It was understood and agreed between the Department of Welfare and the Somerset County Institution District that said amount of fourteen thousand nine hundred seventy-five dollars ($14,975.00) should belong to the Someset County Institution District in the settlement and division of the property but the viewers' report was not confirmed as it was determined that the Commonwealth and not the Institution District could enforce payment of the damages therefore

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of fourteen thousand nine hundred seventy-five dollars ($14,975.00) is hereby appropriated to the Department of Property and Supplies for payment and return to the Somerset County Institution District of the amount awarded as damages for the taking by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission of the lands of the Somerset County Institution District before the partial taking over by the Commonwealth of the property of said district and which it had been agreed between the Commonwealth and the Institution District should belong and be returned to the district Payment of this appropriation shall be made on requisition of the Secretary of Property and Supplies with the approval of the Department of Justice

Section 2 The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission is hereby authorized to pay into the State Treasury such sum as may be agreed upon between the said commission and the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth as a proper consideration for land taken for the construction of its highway and for the erection of a restaurant and service station as set forth in the preamble of this act for the purpose of reimbursing the Somerset County Institution District for the difference between the value of land intended to be reconveyed by the Commonwealth to the said district and the land remaining for such reconveyance after such taking

Section 3 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine section eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby resolves as follows

That article nine section eight of the Constitution of Pennsylvania is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 8 The debt of any county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district except as provided herein and in section fifteen of this article shall never exceed seven (7) per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein nor shall any such county municipality or district incur any debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two (2) per centum upon such assessed valuation of property without the consent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law The debt of the city of Philadelphia may be increased in such amount that the total debt of said city shall not exceed twelve and one-half (12½) per centum upon the average of the last ten annual assessed valuations of the taxable realty therein but said city shall not increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two and one-half (2½) per centum upon such average assessed valuation of realty without the consent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law No debt shall be incurred by or on behalf of the county of Philadelphia and within such county only the city of Philadelphia and the school district of Philadelphia shall have power to incur debt quired by section ten of this article until the expiration of said period of one year after the completion of said work

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask what this proposed amendment to the constitution is.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, the proposed Joint Resolution amends Article IX Section 4 of the Constitution, which at the present time provides that

> No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debts; and the debt created to supply deficiencies in revenue shall never exceed in the aggregate, at any one time, one million dollars.

The proposed amendment provides that the debt limit shall be fifty million dollars and strikes out the subsequent provision of that same section which is > Provided, however, that the General Assembly, irrespective of any debt, may authorize the State to issue bonds to the amount of one hundred millions of dollars for the purpose of improving and rebuilding the highways of the Commonwealth.

It strikes out that particular provision so that it is actually two amendments to the one section.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, how long has the provision limiting the debt of the Commonwealth to one million dollars been in effect?

Mr. SORG. Since November 6, 1923, Mr. Speaker. I beg the gentleman's pardon, that is the date of the limitation expressed as it is at the present time.

Mr. ANDREWS. Has the experience of Pennsylvania in the matter of its financing and financial structure been unfavorable as compared with other States where the sky is the limit on issuing bonds?

Mr. SORG. Not to my knowledge, it has not been unfavorable comparatively speaking, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. As a matter of fact, would not the gentleman from Elk say that our position has been singularly happy among the sisterhood of the States, and largely as the result of the restraining influence of that restriction on bonded debt?

Mr. SORG. I would not say that we have been singularly happy, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Might I further inquire as to what has happened that has brought about the desire to make such a radical change in a traditional policy?

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, there is no particular set of circumstances to my knowledge that brings this about.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, has there been any popular demand?

Mr. SORG. With all apologies to the gentleman from Cambria I want to say that I had reference to Senate Bill 344 rather than Senate Bill 570, which also proposes an amendment to the Constitution limiting the debt of the Commonwealth. This particular measure applies solely and exclusively to the limitation of the debt of the City of Philadelphia.

Mr. ANDREWS. I accept the gentleman's apology and will yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Tate.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SMITH. I shall.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I desire the gentleman, for the information of the House, to explain just what this constitutional amendment does.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the gentleman from Philadelphia, first, our borrowing capacity in the city is ten per cent of the property value plus the real estate value. This bill now eliminates the personal property value and increases it twelve and a half percent on the real estate value.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman tell the Members of the House why at this time this constitutional amendment is necessary?

Mr. SMITH. Only because the personal property value has great fluctuation. It is stated in this bill that we have based our borrowing capacity on a ten year average, while today it is based on a yearly average. With the personal property value fluctuating as it does, there may be a difference sometimes as much as forty to fifty millions in a year.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia further tell me why the personal property assessments go up and down while the real estate assessments constantly decrease?

Mr. SMITH. It is probably, Mr. Speaker, because of the fact that the people in the city make so much money that they move out of the city into Montgomery County among the wealthy people, withdraw their stocks, which makes that figure fluctuate to a certain extent.

Mr. TATE. Would the gentleman tell me that that is the reason why it goes up?

Mr. SMITH. That is the reason why it goes down.

Mr. TATE. Will the gentleman tell me why it goes up?

Mr. SMITH. The stock increases in value, the value of the stock increases and then the assessment value would be greater.

Mr. TATE. But would that not tax that which goes up rather than that which goes down?

Mr. SMITH. That which goes up generally does come down, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TATE. I presume then, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman desires this increase in borrowing capacity for some postwar improvements in the City of Philadelphia?

Mr. SMITH. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, I didn't hear that.

Mr. TATE. Will the gentleman tell the Speaker whether or not this increase in the borrowing capacity is to handle some postwar improvements in the City of Philadelphia?

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, this does not increase our borrowing capacity. It makes for more stability in our borrowing capacity. Our borrowing capacity will be about the same, which amounts to about thirty million dollars.

Mr. TATE. Is the gentleman aware of the fact that the City of Philadelphia now owes approximately five hundred million dollars?

Mr. SMITH. I do not see why that has anything to do with this, Mr. Speaker. This has only to do with the borrowing capacity; what we owe and what we do not owe has nothing to do with it. It gives us a more stable borrowing capacity.

Mr. TATE. Is the gentleman aware of the fact that for a great many years the City of Philadelphia was beyond its borrowing capacity?

Mr. SMITH. No, I am afraid, Mr. Speaker, I was not aware of that.

Mr. TATE. The gentleman stated that the borrowing capacity was approximately thirty million dollars. Why it is that the present funded indebtedness of the City of Philadelphia is about five hundred million dollars?

Mr. SMITH. I am still sorry, I do not see that that has anything to do with this bill. This bill merely stablizes borrowing, gives us a more definite and equal borrowing capacity than we have had in the past. I am sorry I cannot tell him anything else about it.

Mr. TATE. Can the gentleman tell me why an increase in the borrowing capacity from ten percent to twelve and a half percent will put it on a more stable basis?

Mr. SMITH. Yes, Mr. Speaker, because it gives us a twelve and a half percent borrowing capacity of the assessed real estate value, which does not fluctuate as much as the personal property.

Mr. TATE. By what magic formula has that been worked out?

Mr. SMITH. On the basis of past performance, Mr. Speaker. Our assessed value varies from year to year.

Mr. TATE. Would the gentleman think that fifteen percent would be more stable?

Mr. SMITH. No, because that would then increase the borrowing capacity of the city. On a two and a half percent increase we give ourselves a greater borrowing capacity, but it will average up over a ten year period.

Mr. TATE. If a fifteen percent borrowing capacity would increase it, how much would it increase it?

Mr. SMITH. It would increase it by two and a half percent more than it is now, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TATE. How much in dollars and cents?

Mr. SMITH. I would say about eight hundred thousand dollars, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TATE. As a matter of fact, the gentleman does not know; isn't that correct?

Mr. SMITH. Well, I don't think any of us knows just what it is, because it will have to be an estimate on next year's real estate value.

Mr. TATE. I might refer the gentleman to a recent statement made by the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia in which he said that the real estate assessments have been constantly decreasing. Is that correct?

Mr. SMITH. The real estate assessments only decreased about thirty million dollars during the last year, that is between 1943 and 1944. Our real estate assessed value in the year 1943 was two billion four hundred seventy-eight million dollars and in 1944 two billion four hundred forty-two million dollars.

Mr. TATE. Can the gentleman tell me over a ten year period how much the real estate assessments have decreased?

Mr. SMITH. Well, from the period of 1931 our assessed real estate value was three billion four hundred twenty-two million, and in 1944 it was two billion and something which is a loss of about one billion dollars, which seems to be a lot of money.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time to oppose this constitutional amendment, mainly because the City of Philadelphia presently does not need this additional borrowing capacity. I think the citizens of the City of Philadelphia are entitled to the present protection of ten percent.

The city administration which is now in power has not shown any honest intention or any honest progressive effort to make capital improvements in their post-war planning, nor have they made any honest efforts to decrease the cost of government in the city of Philadelphia, and until they have shown those honest efforts I think we in the Legislature should continue to keep the same restriction on them, to-wit, the ten percent limit on borrowing capacity. I know the gentleman may refer to the fact that we are taking away from the personal property base. Nevertheless I do not think it is material when you increase your borrowing capacity from ten percent to twelve and a half percent. Over the assessments in particular one can check at a ready glance and will find that that will mean a gigantic increase in the borrowing capacity and in my opinion the increase will be used for more payrolls and more drones.

Mr. SMITH. I believe that the gentleman from Philadelphia is not quite clear on this. This bill does not increase our borrowing capacity; it only stabilizes it; it does not increase it. It takes the personal property tax away and gives a two and a half percent increase on the real estate value. Our borrowing capacity will remain approximately the same, even to a dollar.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 183, entitled:

An Act providing for the conservation and improvement of land affected in connection with the mining of bituminous coal by the open pit mining method

The first section was read and agreed to.

The second section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Messrs. BONEY and MARTIN L. MURRAY offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 2, page 2, line 2, by striking out the words "Bituminous Coal Open Pit," and inserting in lieu thereof: "Open Pit or Strip."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. BONEY. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of this House, the purpose of this amendment is to make this bill apply to the anthracite region the same as the bill as it is written now applies to the bituminous section. We feel that this bill discriminates against a section that is just as severely affected by strip mining as the western bituminous section of this State.

To be brief, Mr. Speaker, as I said previously, the only object that our amendments would accomplish is to extend the same relief to the anthracite region as was intended by this bill to extend to the bituminous region.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I rise to oppose these amendments, Mr. Speaker. After all, I understand and have seen first hand many of the strip mining operations in the hard coal region and also the soft coal region, and I know that there are many gentlemen from both hard and soft coal regions. There is a great deal of difference in the type of stripping and the way the land was left after the stripping was done. Also here in Pennsylvania we distinguish between the operation of hard and soft coal in that we have two different coal operations in Pennsylvania, one for the hard coal region and one for the mining of bituminous coal. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I see no reason at this time after the thorough study that has been made by both sides of the House of this subject, that these amendments should be inserted in the bill.

Mr. BONEY. Mr. Speaker, personally I see no reason why anybody should object to these amendments because after all we are just as much a part of Pennsylvania as the people in the western part of the State. Our people are vitally affected by this strip mining.

Last week, or two weeks ago, during the occasion of my visit home I was contacted by one of my neighbors who told me that they all had received a notice that they along with fifty other families occupying about thirty homes, must vacate because it was the intention of the company which owned the property to dismantle them and eventually tear them down. Now, we have no objection to that, because after all the property is owned by these people and they have the right to do as they please with it, but if we have no control over it this practice eventually will mean that these towns will be wiped out. We have endeavored many time to get bills out of committee that would give some relief to our section, but it has been impossible. The only procedure we could see that we could follow, was to amend this bill to take the anthracite region along with it.

The thing is, as I said before, it appears like discrimination to me. We are a part of this state the same as any other section of the state. We should be recognized and we should be extended some relief, and I ask all of you ladies and gentlemen of the House to vote for these amendments.

Mr. BRICE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Boney.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BONEY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BRICE. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact in the stripping in the hard coal region you people have been going one hundred fifty feet deep in order to get that which ordinarily would be reached at forty-five or fifty feet? Now, were are you going to get the dirt to fill up those holes?

Mr. BONEY. Is the gentleman acquainted with the eastern part of Pennsylvania? There are mountains of dirt available that are easily accessible. In my opinion and from my experience that would not be any problem whatsoever.

Mr. BRICE. I was born and raised in the hard coal region, Mr. Speaker. I have seen the stripping and I have seen the holes left when hard coal is taken out. It would take years to fill up those holes.

Mr. BONEY. Personally, Mr. Speaker, I am surrounded by them; I see them every day, I observe them, and personally I do not think that would be any problem at all. I believe that the gentleman who lives in that particular neighborhood would agree entirely with my statement.

Mr. BRICE. I am not against filling the holes, but I am just wondering where they will get sufficient dirt to fill those holes.

Mr. BONEY. Mr. Speaker, if any of you would travel through the anthracite region you would see large numbers of refuse and dirt banks, slate and rock, throughout the entire anthracite region.

Mr. BRICE. With the setup that they have in the antracite region it would advance the cost of getting the coal out twenty-five to fifty percent.

Mr. BONEY. Personally I would not be able to answer that part of it.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Boney and Mr. White.

Messrs. Elish, Boney and Martin L. Murray asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

Amend the bill, page 7, by inserting between lines 28 and 29:

Section 11. Any operator desiring to engage in commercial strip mining of anthracite coal shall make written application to the Secretary for a separate permit for each pit wherein he proposes so to engage. Application for such permit shall be made upon the form furnished by the Secretary which form shall require a statement showing the location in the township and county in which the pit is located, the approximate number of acres of coal that will be mined annually, and the approximate date upon which mining operations shall commence. Such application shall be accompanied by an annual fee as follows: For less than twenty-five (25) acres to be stripped in one (1) year, an annual fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00), for twenty-five (25) acres or more, but less than fifty (50) acres to be stripped in one (1) year, an annual fee of fifty dollars ($50.00), for fifty (50) acres and over to be stripped in one (1) year, an annual fee of seventy-five dollars ($75.00). Such application together with the proper fee shall also be accompanied by a bond as hereinafter required. Upon receipt of such application fee and bond, the Secretary shall issue a permit to the applicant which shall entitle him to engage thereafter in commercial strip mining at the general location of the pit described in said permit for the year beginning the first day of July, and ending the thirtieth day of June of the following year. Each permit shall be renewed each year by the Secretary upon receipt by him of the required annual fee so long as the operator complies with the provisions of this act.

Section 12. Every operator to whom a permit is issued shall submit to the Secretary in duplicate on or before the first day of September annually, a map in form approved by the Secretary, setting forth the location in the township and county with such other description as will identify the land from which the operator removed coal by the strip mining method during the preceding permit year, with a legend upon such map showing the number of acres affected by such mining operations, and said operator shall submit to the Secretary, in duplicate, on or before the first day of September annually, a map in a form approved by the Secretary, setting forth the location in the township and county, with such other description as will identify that land stripped prior to the effective date of this act, which land the operator is required to restore in the amount, and at such time, as in this act provided. The accuracy of the acreage shown upon the map may be checked by the Secretary, and if found to be erroneous, it shall be corrected by the operator and a new map furnished as required by the Secretary.

Section 13. Any person engaged in "strip" mining in which the soil over or covering any bed or strata of anthracite coal is removed shall spread such soil so that the contour of the land is approximately the same as before the mining operation was begun. Such levelling operations shall be done progressively following the opening of each new open pit or strip, and shall be done to all pits opened within two years preceding the effective date of this act, so that no more than three spoil ridges shall be left unlevelled behind the actively used open cut for coal removal. When the mining of coal on any tract of land is completed, the remaining spoil ridges shall be levelled by the operator before leaving the tract with his or its machinery used for that purpose: Provided, however, That the operator shall not be required to totally fill the last open cut where the adjacent spoil ridge will not fill such cut.

Section 14. Any unexpired permit shall be effective so long only as the operator shall possess the legal right and power by legal estate owned to mine anthracite coal from the land described in said permit. All right of the Secretary to require improvements shall terminate within six (6) years after the end of the permit year in which strip mining was completed upon said land, unless he shall, before the end of said period, have served upon the operator written directions to make such improvements. The Secretary shall release from the effect of this statute, either by reason of compliance or limitation of time, all or any part of the land affected by filing with the recorder of the county in which said land is located, a written release in form prepared by the Secretary.

Section 15. In addition to the duties and powers of the Secretary heretofore enacted, he shall grant, refuse, modify, revoke or cancel permits in accordance with the provisions of this act, and generally shall have full power and authority to carry out and administer the provisions of this act, including the power to promulgate rules and regulations in conformity therewith.

The operator shall have the right to continue to operate under the said permit pending the final decision of the Secretary on the hearing for the revocation of such permit, and if an appeal is taken, then until the final decision of such appeal.

All costs of hearing trials and appeals herein provided for shall be taxed as costs are taxed in other civil actions. Where costs are taxed against the Secretary, they shall be paid from the funds provided for the Department of Mines.

Section 16. No permit shall be cancelled or revoked by the Secretary until after a hearing on written charges has been had before the Secretary after not less than fifteen (15) days' written notice, fixing date and place of such hearing has been given to such operator.

Section 17. Contemporaneously with and as a condition precedent to registration under the provisions of section four of this act, or the issuance of a permit under section fifteen of this act, there shall be filed by the operator with the Secretary, a bond payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, conditioned that the operator shall faithfully perform all requirements of this act, and comply with all rules of the Department made in accordance with the provisions of this act that are applicable to the type of mining for which registration is made or a permit is issued. Such bond shall be signed by the operator as principal and by a corporate or individual surety approved by the Secretary. The penalty of such bond shall be not less than two thousand dollars ($2,000), and such additional amount as will equal four hundred dollars ($400) for each acre or portion thereof of land in excess of five (5) acres proposed thereafter by the operator to be subjected to commercial open pit or strip mining for the ensuing permit year. The penalty of the bond shall from time to time be increased or reduced by the Secretary pro tanto in accordance with the number of acres added to the land for open pit or strip mining operations or in accordance with the determined cost of such leveling or other required work from time to time or in accordance with the number of acres to which the bond is no longer operative because of operator's withdrawal of acreage from operations or by reason of his performance of his obligations, subsequent to registration or the issuance of the permit. Any operator may execute the bond without surety if he shall deposit with the Secretary cash in the amount of two hundred dollars ($200) for each acre of land proposed by him to be mined in the next succeeding period of three (3) months and the registration or permit issued therefor shall be limited to the number of acres for which the deposit is made, but may be increased later by the Secretary on receipt of additional deposits of two hundred dollars ($200) for each additional acre proposed to be mined. Such deposits shall be retained by the Secretary in a special account as a guaranty by the operator for the faithful performance of his bond. Should the operator fail to carry out the provisions of this act that are applicable to the type of mining for which registration is made or a permit is issued, the Secretary may procure suck work to be performed and may use the fund so deposited by such operator to pay for such work or may institute suit on the bond to pay therefor. The Secretary shall release any bond and shall repay any deposits no longer necessary to be retained for the purpose of this act, upon a showing by operator that the provisions of this act, with respect to the acreage covered by such bond or deposit, have been complied with.

INTERROGATION

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining before agreeing to the bill on second reading.

The SPEAKER. The bill has been agreed to on second reading. Would the gentleman be satisfied to make the interrogation on third reading?

Mr. PETROSKY. No, Mr. Speaker, I would like to be clear on this bill before third reading. I had stepped up to the microphone before the bill was agreed to but it was not turned on, and no doubt the Speaker did not hear me.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the interrogation? Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and consent is granted.

Will the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, permit himself to be interrogated

Mr. HEWITT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PETROSKY. I desire to know from the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, as to whether or not recommendations in his bill, or rather the nucleus of this bill on strip mining, as to whether or not these are the recommendations of the Governor of the Commonwealth?

Mr. HEWITT. This bill as it is drawn today and amended is the agreement of all parties on strip mining in the bituminous fields.

Mr. PETROSKY. Will the gentleman tell me as to whether or not the Governor of the Commonwealth had recommended to the legislative bodies a recommendation that there be included in the bill a provision whereby five hundred dollars per acre for the first ten acres and two hundred fifty dollars per acre for the acreage thereafter be used as a basis of depositing funds in order to rehabilitate the land whereupon the stripping occurred?

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Westmoreland, I want to say that in a conference with the Governor and all parties interested the five hundred dollar fee for the first ten acres was first talked of, and two hundred fifty dollars for the succeeding acres after the first ten, but after talking the thing over with the Governor and the parties interested, and pleading for something reasonable that will not put the small operator out of business, and to keep the bituminous coal rolling for the war effort, it was agreed upon that the bond was too heavy for the small man, which would mean a minimum bond of five thousand dollars and another five thousand dollars for the next twenty-five acres.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire further from the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, as to who were the interested parties that were present at the conference that agreed upon this nominal sum that is included in Senate Bill No. 183 Printer's No. 578?

Mr. HEWITT. The interested parties, Mr. Speaker, were representatives of the Governor, the Secretary of Mines and some of the people in the coal industry. That is, all bills were discussed with the people whose business was affected.

Mr. PETROSKY. I desire to inquire further of the gentleman from Indiana, whether the public is interested in such a piece of legislation or not in his opinion.

Mr. HEWITT. The public is very much interested in strip legislation, Mr. Speaker. The public has been led away by the unsightly strip piles and loses sight of the fact that strip mining in the State has been the salvation of our war efforts. We have tried to convince the public that we had better save this country before we beautify it, and we tried to convince them that we have strip holes instead of shell holes, for that reason when it came from the Senate we raised it to two hundred dollars.

For the information of the House I would like to say that the two hundred dollar bond per acre is sufficient to round off the spoil piles and plant it at the discretion of the Department of Forests and Waters. The bond is ample for all that the bill calls for.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know from the gentleman from Indiana as to whether or not the representatives of the public were invited into the conference with the interested parties on strip mining legislation?

Mr. HEWITT. I represent the public, Mr. Speaker. I am a Member of this House from a coal strip mining county.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I certainly will not get into personalities in this interrogation at this late date of the session, but I would like to ask the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, as to whether or not he has delved into the cost of covering the excavations made in coal strip mining areas?

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, we have figured it out that the two hundred dollar bond is sufficient for that purpose . . . will the gentleman from Westmoreland repeat the question?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I asked the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, as to whether or net he had delved into the cost of rehabilitation of the land in coal strip mining insofar as any project which has already been taken care of similar to what the provisions of the bill call for, or likewise insofar as rehabilitating the land completely for future agricultural purposes.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, I wish to state to the gentleman from Westmoreland and for the benefit of the Members of the House how that was done. This is not a refill piece of legislation. We have all kinds of information, the best kind of engineering in the State interested in the proposition, and it is estimated that it will cost from thirty-six to thirty-seven hundred dollars an acre in the bituminous coal area in this State. For that reason a back-fill proposition is impossible at this time if we are to continue producing coal to promote the war effort.

Mr. PETROSKY. I would just like to ask the gentleman from Indiana as to whether or not he owns any land in Indiana County.

Mr. HEWITT. Well, Mr. Speaker, I do not own any coal lands.

Mr. PETROSKY. Does the gentleman own any land in Indiana County?

Mr. HEWITT. I don't own any coal land, Mr. Speaker; no coal land.

Mr. PETROSKY. Are there any lands that the gentleman owns being stripped?

Mr. HEWITT. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I think the matter that is before us at the present time certainly is a piece of legislation that is very important to the people of the Commonwealth, especially so today. I know that the provisions in this measure before us are very lax, and I must say from my understanding of the earnings of the stripping operators in western Pennsylvania—the Pittsburgh-Connellsville area and the other large veins of coal that we have—the moneys that are made in profits from these stripping operations are, if I could use the term, enormous profits per acre.

This bill is certainly inadequate. The Governor has made public recommendations regarding strip mining legislation and has asked for a bill wherein the provisions would state that the operator would have to place bond for five hundred dollars per acre for the first ten acres and two hundred fifty dollars per acre thereafter. Those recommendations are honestly a minimum for a rehabilitation of the land that is being torn asunder by the strip mining operations.

May I cite to the Membership of the House an example of strip mining operation that has been made about a half mile north of the small borough of Delmont in Westmoreland County? There was one and a quarter acres of land stripped, and by agreement of the owner of the land upon leasing the coal for stripping, I found through him that he had bargained with the stripping operator for paying fifty per cent of the expenses incurred in covering that operation to the extent that the land could be rehabilitated. When I ask for rehabilitation of the land I take the position that we as a state and as a nation must take our rightful place in this world after the war as an agricultural nation as well as an industrial nation. The rehabilitation of the land on this project that I mentioned cost the farmer who leased the land four hundred dollars, which was fifty per cent of the cost of coverage in order to again use that land for agricultural purposes.

While I am on this point, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to the gentleman that his argument has been voiced in the papers in every discussion that was had on this matter as to the five hundred dollars an acre. They are asking two hundred dollars an acre for coverage, may I say that the land can be made productive by good and proper coverage and by rehabilitation of the land by proper processes such as farmers use, and the agricultural purposes that it is to be used for will pay many, many times the five hundred dollars that the Governor first recommended.

I say to you that I do not believe the public was taken into the conference in order to discuss this legislation, and since the public is interested I feel that the bill before us has inadequate provisions to cover the matter which it attempts to cover. I feel that the bill should be passed over and held up until such time as the recommendations of the Governor of three weeks ago are inserted in the bill. If the majority side of the House of Representatives feels that the Governor was not sincere in his recommendation he made three weeks ago, then we can let the matter rest and let the responsibility rest upon the shoulders of the majority party for not passing a proper an adequate bill to take care of the matter at this time.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 641

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote be reconsidered by which Senate Bill No. 641, Printer's No. 483, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred seventeen (P. L. 447), entitled "An act relating to the administration and distribution of the estates of decedents and of minors, and of trust estates; including the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, liabilities, accounts, discharge and removal of executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees, herein designated as fiduciaries; the administration and distribution of the estates of presumed decedents; widow's and children's exemptions; debts of decedents; rents of real estate as assets for payment thereof, the lien thereof, sales and mortgages of real estate for the payment thereof, judgments and executions therefor, and the discharge of real estate from the lien thereof; contracts of decedents for the sale or purchase of real estate; legacies, including legacies charged on land; the discharge of residuary estates and of real estate from the lien of legacies and other charges; the appraisement of real estate devised at a valuation; the ascertainment of the curtilege of dwelling houses or other buildings devised; the abatement and survival of actions, and the substitution of executors and administrators therein, and suits against fiduciaries; investments by fiduciaries the organization of corporations to carry on the business of decedents; the audit and review of accounts of fiduciaries; refunding bonds; transcripts to the court of common pleas of balances due by fiduciaries; the rights, powers, and liabilities of nonresident and foreign fiduciaries; the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, and liabilities of trustees durante absentia; the recording and registration of decrees, reports and other proceedings, and the fees therefor; appeals in certain cases; and, also, generally dealing with the jurisdiction, powers, and procedure of the orphans' court in all matters relating to fiduciaries concerned with the estates of decedents," as amended by further modifying the terms, qualifications, and other conditions under which the investment of trust funds may be made by fiduciaries, was defeated on Final Passage in the House on May 3rd, be reconsidered.

Mr. WACHHAUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. OBrien vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Wachhaus, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. WACHHAUS. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state it.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, were we not on the question of debate on the strip mining bill just a second ago, before the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, got the floor?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman was speaking by unanimous consent. The bill had passed second reading.

Mr. BROWN. Another parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker, if a bill that has been defeated is reconsidered, can final action on that bill be taken before the bill is printed and placed on the calendar?

The SPEAKER. If the vote by which a bill was defeated is reconsidered, the question recurs on the final passage of the bill.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, we would ordinarily go along with any motion to reconsider. I think that is proper, and I have followed that procedure during my career here in the House, but there is something unsavory and something that should be looked into in this matter we are discussing at this present time.

Ordinarily when a bill is defeated and reconsideration is asked for, generally there is some attempt to get together on the bill, to find out what the differences are and to use some degree of courtesy toward those who oppose the bill in the matter of reconsideration.

This bill or course was a bad bill last night; it is a bad bill tonight, and the proponents of the bill know it. No attempt has been made to iron out any of the differences that caused the defeat of the bill last night. This motion to reconsider is simply made as a power motion to push this legislation through this House in the dying hours of the session. I think under those circumstances this motion to reconsider should be defeated, and I ask the Members of the House to vote against it.

Mr. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I find myself in a rather anomalous position tonight. I do not believe that my distinguished colleague, Mr. Brown and I differed on many pieces of legislation since I have been a Member of this House, but on this particular measure I cannot see that the distinguished gentleman from Allegheny is correct.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I believe I see a lobbyist for this bill occupying a seat of a Member. May Members allow lobbyists to occupy their seats?

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman to point out the individual.

Mr. BROWN. The gentleman was occupying the seat of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss. He was even so bold as to come upon the floor of the House and occupy the seat of the Member. I see he has left now.

The SPEAKER. That is against the rules of the House. The Sergeant-at-Arms will see that none but Members occupy the seats of Members.

Mr. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, as I was saying prior to the interruption, the gentleman from Allegheny has indicated that there was something unsavory about this bill. I felt last night when this particular measure was defeated that possibly many of the Members who voted against the bill had not had an opportunity to study it, and Mr. Brown at that time pointed out that there should be further study and further opportunity given to the Members to become acquainted with the proposition. However, all the Members know that this Session of the House is in its last stages and that if action is to be taken on this particular measure it must be taken now. I believe most of the Members who had no information concerning the bill last night have had an opportunity to become acquainted with the measure.

I myself have re-read the measure after hearing the opposition and I cannot for the life of me see anything of an unsavory nature. I believe my reputation in the sessions that I have served in the House indicates that if I felt anything at all was wrong with this particular amendment I would oppose it, and oppose it vigorously, but in my own humble opinion I think the measure is designed for the welfare of the ordinary individual affected by trust funds, and I ask the Members to support the motion to reconsider.

Mr. GRANT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Rose.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROSE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GRANT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Rose, if the bill in its original form came over here with a provision that one of the legal investments was public authorities?

Mr. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, when the bill passed the House and was committed to the Senate Banking Committee it did not have that particular provision.

Mr. GRANT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I have no doubt in my mind, and I do not think there is any doubt in the mind of any Member who voted upon this bill last night, what this bill provided for. I rose and said in very simple language all it did was broaden the investment powers and rights of trustees; that is all it did.

Since the bill was defeated last night it is needless for me to say anything other than to remind you of the remark that Mr. Brown made. Since the bill passed a certain gentleman who is very much interested in putting public authorities into the provisions of this act has been over to this side of the House and approached many of the Members over here and many of them have committed themselves to vote to have this bill reconsidered. Like Mr. Brown, I also do not like to rise for the purpose of keeping defeated bills from being reconsidered, because I believe every bill should have an opportunity, the fullest type of an opportunity to go before this House on its merits.

If I would say anything further than I have said now I would be doing a discredit to myself because I think enough has been said, but I appeal to the conscience of every Member of this House on both sides, whether or not this bill has had a fair presentation before the Members of this House. I say to the Members on this side of the House and the other side of the House, that in good conscience, if you have given your word that you will vote for the reconsideration of this bill, you so vote, but in casting your vote for the final passage of the bill let your conscience be your guide as it was last night.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. Speaker, in the words of the Melancholy Dane in Hamlet, it looks as though there was something rotten in Denmark in relation to this bill. This bill had plenty of debate last night. The fact of the matter is that we spent so much time in debating it that we were late for the fine dinner that the Speaker gave——

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, is there anything in the Constitution against reconsideration of a bill? Why has the Speaker permitted all these speeches that are certainly not relevant to the motion at hand, and this wide latitude in connection with the last two speakers. The motion before the House, Mr. Speaker, is the reconsideration of the bill. There is nothing unconstitutional about that. This motion does not have any smell. It is possible under the Constitution.

The SPEAKER. The question on the motion to reconsider is the only question before the House. The members have gone far afield. Will they not please confine their remarks to the question on the motion to reconsider? That is the only question before the House?

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. Speaker, you cannot point out in anything that I have said that I was out of bounds in any way whatsoever. I believe I had only uttered about twenty words when the interruption occurred.

Mr. Speaker, this bill had plenty of debate last evening and there is no reason whatsoever for us to take it up again tonight. In this morning's Harrisburg Telegraph, in an editorial it was pointed out that it was very bad for the Legislature to rush through important measures at the last minute. We have entertained a resolution to adjourn sine die tomorrow and it certainly is bad to bring this thing up again tonight and try to rush it through in the closing minutes of this Legislature. It had its full opportunity last evening. I do not understand why the measures that the gentleman from Delaware is interested in have to have a couple hearings, new trials and so forth. We gave him one on the Judge's Bill. I cannot understand why we must defeat the same bill several times. For that reason I ask the Members to vote down this motion.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen who have spoken against reconsideration happen all three to be Members of the bar and I know that they are familiar with something that is a cardinal saying among members of the bar. When a man has no case he always stands before the jury and belabors the opposition attorney.

In twenty years that I have been a Member of this House I recall no piece of legislation on the statute books for which I have voted, and many which I have supported, that has caused one cent of loss or hardship to any person in the Commonwealth. I know of no occasion, Mr. Speaker, in those twenty years when men, two of whom are members of the bar as I am, ever stood upon the floor of this House and at any time directly or indirectly impunged my motives. I do not like and I do not intend to stand here and in any way say anything that could be taken as being in my defense, because I feel that my record needs no defense in the presence of any of the Members of this House, past or present.

The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Grant, last night I thought put the real note into the argument, and the argument then was made by him, and the argument which I think is the one which should prevail is solely this, do you believe that we should broaden the base in reference to legal investments for trust funds. A large number of people——

Mr. ANDREWS. I would suggest that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien, remind the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, that he is not discussing the question on reconsideration.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has requested the Members to confine themselves to the motion to reconsider. Will all the Members please confine their remarks to that question?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I think I had a perfect right to make my opening statement in view of the remarks that had previously been made. The statement upon which I was proceeding when the gentleman from Cambria interrupted me was on the question of the reconsideration, because I was discussing the measure. The question is whether you want to by this bill broaden the base——

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I insist that the gentleman is not discussing the matter of reconsideration.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman raising a point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. I raise the point of order and ask for a ruling, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair's decision is that the point of order is well taken. Will the gentleman please confine his remarks to the question on the motion to reconsider?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I shall certainly abide by the ruling of the Chair, as I understand the ruling, even though it seems to me that it is now cutting myself.

I will return again, if I may, to the statement that in asking you to reconsider this bill we feel we are giving the Members of this House an opportunity to vote upon a measure having to do with the question as to whether we will broaden the base of legal investments of trust funds.

It is an important question to the people of Pennsylvania, to thousands of trust estates and to the thousands who have an interest in those trust estates. Therefore we ask the opportunity to have this matter reconsidered in order that the bill may be presented before you and that you may have an opportunity to decide on the question devoid of all other issues.

Mr. McDOWELL. Mr. Speaker, last evening wnen this bill was before us for consideration I purposely did not rise because the debate became so acrimonious that anything I might say would not add anything to the argument.

I stand here as a representative of the small banks of western Pennsylvania, if I can be called that——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McDOWELL. I accept the point of order in advance, Mr. Speaker.

The reason why this bill should not be reconsidered is because we who voted against the bill last night are perfectly familiar with the provisions of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, namely that in 1874 the framers of the Constitution felt so strongly about the investment of trust funds that they restricted the investment of those funds solely to government securities, until finally in 1933, by amendments to the Constitution they put in this provision——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. TURNER. The gentleman is not speaking on the motion according to the ruling of the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The point is well taken. Will the gentleman please confine his remarks to the motion to reconsider?

Mr. McDOWELL. All we need to do is to recall the arguments made last night pro and con regarding the merits of this measure to realize that the entire emphasis was placed upon the increased earnings of the cestuis qui trusts and the various types of trusts that we can create in Pennsylvania——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. I certainly regret to raise a point of order on my friend from McKean. I would like to listen to his argument when this bill comes up, but in view of the fact that the Speaker at the request of the gentleman from Cambria ruled on the point as he did, I must raise a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. TURNER. The gentleman is not now speaking on the motion, he is talking about the bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order is well taken. The gentleman will confine himself to the question before the House.

Mr. McDOWELL. Mr. Speaker, the reason why we should not vote to reconsider this bill is, let us not take the trust funds of Pennsylvania closer to the crap game.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BROWN. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner——

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield? If it is a question of personal privilege it cannot be permitted during the debate on this motion.

Mr. BROWN. I shall withdraw the request then until the motion has been acted upon.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I, like Mr. Brown believe every now and then on bills of special moment they should be given a new trial, and I agree personally, not upon behalf of this side of the House by any means, but personally, that I would support a motion to reconsider. Had I known at the time I promised that I would vote to reconsider under this outrageous pressure, I would have cut off my right hand before I would have promised to reconsider.

The reason why the motion should not prevail is because direction has been taken out of the hands of this House and placed upon the sidelines. The reason why this motion should not pass, or there should be no reconsideration, is because in all my legislative history I never saw such pressure tactics as have been exercised in connection with this measure. I shall vote as I said I would vote to reconsider, and I shall vote against this bill.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, a lot of discussion has taken place on this bill, and in order that the Members of this House may know where I stand, I am going to vote to reconsider, but that does not commit me to vote for this bill or against it. I always vote to reconsider bills to give people a chance to see whether or not the bill has any merits.

Mr. BROWN. I ask for a roll call.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, not being in the Hall of the House in time for all the debate on this bill yesterday, and hearing a remark or two upon the floor of the House today until the point of order was raised, I ask permission to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I think it is germane to the question before the House now for me to ask the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, as to just what is rotten in Denmark or what is rotten in this bill? Whether stated in a newspaper or on the floor, is it not proper to explain what is rotten in a bill, so that we may know just what position to take on reconsideration of the bill?

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I was not here last night either, but I am not going to sit here tonight and listen to more and more discussion like you listened to last night. We don't know whether the motion will carry or not. Let us call the roll.

Mr. MAHANAY. Mr. Speaker, I should like to answer the gentleman if I may.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that it is not a proper question on a motion to reconsider.

Mr. PETROSKY. Did I understand the Speaker to rule me out of order in asking the question of the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany?

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules the question out of order.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Brown and Mr. O'Brien.

Messrs. Mahany, Depuy and Hare asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

On the question recurring,

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TURNER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Would the gentleman inform the Members of the House as to his intention in calling the bill up, and when?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, my intention would be to call the bill up tomorrow.

Mr. ANDREWS. At any particular time?

Mr. TURNER. I have no time in mind, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Does the gentleman desire to make a motion that it be a special order at any particular time?

Mr. TURNER. I have no such desire at the present time.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. Speaker, as we all know, tomorrow is supposed to be the last day, these things can be called up at any time, and it might find a lot of us out who might want to vote against it. I think as long as we are trying to close this thing it ought to be settled. I thought it was settled last night, and I think in due deference to the Members this thing should be passed on right now.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I voted against reconsideration of this bill. I have always tried to be fair since I have been a Member of this Legislature. When I think of the bills that are laying in the committees of this House that this House refused to give any consideration to, then we vote to reconsider a bill and then postpone it, I think this House should vote down this motion to postpone. This bill should be given the consideration that was asked for it right now, and I as one will stand by the decision of this House on this bill.

Mr. GRANT. Mr. Speaker, in accordance with my convictions I voted that this bill be reconsidered. I like to be most fair about these things, but now in accordance with my convictions I ask every Member of this House to vote against placing this bill on the postponed calendar.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. CULLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. CULLEN. What is the question before the House?

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to place Senate Bill 641, Printer's No. 483 on the final passage postponed calendar.

Mr. CULLEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, it is quite obvious to the Members of the House why in the last few hours of the session a motion is made to postpone the most debated bill of the session, and I say that in a sense of disgust. I say that knowing that hundreds of pieces of legislation, introduced to serve the people of Pennsylvania, were never brought to the floor of this House. I agree with the gentleman from Westmoreland.

I only want to say in these closing few moments that if one bill introduced and passed for the welfare of the majority of the people of Pennsylvania——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HARE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HARE. The gentleman is not speaking on the motion.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the question on the motion to place the bill on the final passage postponed calendar. The merits of the bill are not debatable under this motion.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, it is quite obvious to me why the proponents of this bill want a postponement. They want a postponement because they have nothing to lose and everything to gain. The roll call on the reconsideration belies their every action. There were approximately eighty-six or -seven votes to reconsider, and the proponents of the bill well know that at least thirty-three percent of the eighty-six are not in favor of the bill. That leaves then about fifty less, and it takes one hundred five votes to pass a bill in this House.

As the gentleman from Crawford well said, tomorrow may find us in the closing minutes of the session. We know what happens in those moments, and we who have served four or five sessions or six sessions know that there is no bill, especially a bill that has been considered as this one has been, that needs any more consideration in the closing minutes of the session than it does twenty-four hours before the session closes. I ask by everything decent that we oppose the postponement and vote tonight and once and for all show the proponents of this bill it is not wanted by this House.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, just in that same vein of "Let's be fair" it is fairly easy mathematical calculation to know that there are only one hundred sixty-six or one hundred sixty-seven votes in this House now and that, therefore, about twenty percent, or a little more than twenty percent of this House is absent. The gentlemen who have pled many times to give opportunity to people to vote on bills, it seems to me ought to give their fellow Members an opportunity to be heard and express themselves on the vote.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I hesitate to rise at this time, being one of those proponents of the bill that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, speaks of I only want to say to the Members of this House that in the past three sessions that I have served here many courtesies have been extended to me by Membrs of the House, by, I may say, unanimous consent to have certain bills placed on the postponed calendar, and in one instance a bill was reconsidered and then again placed on the final postponed calendar, and in deference to the gentleman who has asked for the courtesy of having this bill placed on the final passage postponed calendar, I wish to support the motion at this time.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Cullen and Mr. Baker.

Messrs. Cullen, Baker and Leonard asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I dislike very much to take up the time of the House at this time of the night, but under the circumstances the situation has been forced upon me, and therefore there is nothing I can do but meet the issue as I see it.

It has been suggested to me in the light of the statement made by the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky, in which he evidenced the desire to know something about the bill, that I should make some explanation of it.

I can only say again what I attempted to say earlier, what the gentleman from Berks said last night, that this bill provides a broader base for the investment of trust funds in Pennsylvania and that it sets up certain bonds, certain debenture bonds and certain preferred stocks which will be eligible for investment of trust funds in Pennsylvania. The reason for that is, as I understand it from the communications which I have received and the correspondence which I have had with a number of the bankers, and with a number of individuals, that the amount of return in trust estates has been so low that they have felt that for the benefit of the trust estates and for the benefit of those who are to receive the income from those estates they should have a broader field for investment where they can get a higher rate of return in order to help out those people.

I say the issue is a very clear one; it has the support of a large number of banks in the eastern part of the state that I know of. I did not have communication with those in the central and western parts. I know there is some opposition on the part of some banks. The gentleman from Berks told me last night, or said on the floor, I forget which, that the banks in his own county are in favor of this measure but that he opposes it.

Therefore, on that ground the question is before the Members of this House, as I see it, whether they want to broaden the base or whether they do not. If you do you vote for this bill; if you do not you vote against it.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, looking at the clock and owing to the lateness of the hour, I think my actions at this session have proven that I certainly do not want to delay the proceedings of the House by additional debate on measures that are before us, but I just want to stress that I have stood here for the last three sessions and have heard certain terms used on certain legislation, such as being a shoddy piece of legislation, such as there being something rotten in Denmark, but without proper explanation to warrant such remarks, and in many instances the Membership of the House, I believe, have been mislead and it has caused a bill to be defeated.

I certainly want, for the clarification of the record, to ask the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, as to what is rotten in Denmark? What is wrong with the bill as stated by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Grant giving a broader base for investments to the banks and to the trustees of estates. If not, why not pass the bill, because they certainly need a broader base in order to get a sufficient return for the investment of trust funds.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Mahany, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHANY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PETROSKY. Will the gentleman tell me what is rotten in the bill or what is rotten in Denmark, which ever one he would rather explain?

Mr. MAHANY. Answering the first question, what is rotten in Denmark, I think if the gentleman had been around all day he would probably have been able to understand that, but after this bill was defeated last night there was great activity on the part of Lobbyists to get this bill through for some reason or other and as Mr. Brown pointed out, when the thing first started out, that there was one so bold that he occupied the seat of one of the Members. Now, if that isn't something wrong, I do not know what is.

In regard to the bill, I am not going to add to what I said last night. I think inasmuch as authorities are in their infancy so to speak, that we should not entrust trust funds to that type of security and imperil the savings that have been set up for widows and orphans under the wills of people who are now deceased. I feel, therefore, that the Membership should vote down this bill once again.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, that is not the question that I wanted answered. I want to say to the Membership of the House, I can see no explanation to my interrogation as to whether there is something wrong in the bill or not. There has been no explanation given to me as to why the bill should be voted against. I for one feel that it is a meritorious bill and should be enacted into law in order to enable those trust funds to pay a proper return from the securities they can be invested in. The sole responsibility rests upon those who are making the investments.

Mr. TURNER. I do not like, as I have said many times, to bring personal questions into an issue of this kind, but the gentleman on the other side, and especially the gentleman who has just answered an interrogation has left me no other recourse.

I want to say to the gentleman from Westmoreland who has inquired, that there has been a tremendous amount of influence and pressure used by a certain bank in the western part of Pennsylvania, that has its branches and has its influence in a number of branch banks of that particular bank. I do not know its reason, but it has been against the bill, and that is the reason why some of these men seem to be so hot-foot and have engendered the tremendous amount of heat—not today, but yesterday.

Why is it, as I sought members to support this measure who were not in the hall of the House, Members who were not here last night or Members who voted the other way—as I sought to get some sort of reason from them or to talk about it, I found them reasonable, but in a short time I found that they were not reasonable and that somebody had reached them, and that Members were pressuring them. You talk about a lobby and you talk about opposition; well, there are certain Members of this House who have been just about as busy as a one-armed paper hanger trying to persuade the Members of this House to vote their way.

I talked to Members of the House this morning who said they were perfectly willing to go along, and then in a short time I found that somebody else had grabbed their ear. I do not know what their plea was, but I can imagine from the things that have been said here. I have been told that there is an attempt on the part of some of the Members on this side of the House to spank me for a vote I made a few days ago, and that has been coming to me persistently in the last twenty-four hours I want to say to those men that they cannot spank me; there are not any of them big enough to do that.

Now, gentleman, we ought not to have this sort of situation, but these men have left me no other issue. I think it is the perfect right of anybody to come here and interview Members of the Legislature and ask them to vote on legislation in which they are interested. From the day this session opened until tomorrow when it will close the sidelines of this House and the other Chamber have been lined with men whom I respect, whom I know and who are actively interested in legislation here, endeavoring to get legislation passed or defeated that they think is either good or bad. I never knew that anybody said that was a crime. I don't know of any reason why any man should not interview any Member of the Legislature, and certainly you have not such close sealed minds, that you cannot listen to an individual who has something to say.

Suppose a man has a personal interest in legislation We have school teachers, we have labor, we have utilities, we have coal interests, we have the railroad interests, we have the garden clubs, we have almost every kind of organization you can think of, and they come to the House and ask you to support certain legislation. I see nothing wrong about that, unless a person is offensive and his activity is for the purpose of trying to insinuate something into a bill to turn the Members' minds against voting for the measure. The most unfair action in all my twenty years of experience in this House, the most unfair action that I have ever seen on the floor of this House has occurred tonight, and I say to you that it does no credit to the men who are endeavoring to engineer it.

This legislation was drafted by men who knew something about it. It was prepared by men who thought this legislation was right; it was placed before you and you should approach it on a fair basis, not by underhand methods, not by hitting below the belt as some of you have done, not by taking the course you have taken, but you ought to consider this legislation stand up and discuss it intelligently and be willing to thrash it out on the merits of the legislation itself. If that be treason, make the most of it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

RESOLUTION

Mr. McNALLY. Mr. Speaker, I am introducing this resolution in order to bring to your attention a problem which is becoming more and more serious each day as more and more members of our armed forces return from the fighting fronts to peacetime activity.

I have in mind the growing tendency among employers to use the device of physical examinations to disqualify returning Soldiers, Sailors and Marines and thereby avoid reemploying them. In presenting this resolution I am fondly hoping for its speedy consideration.

Mr. McNALLY offered a resolution which was filed with the Clerk.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain prayer was offered by the gentleman from Berks, Senator RUTH.

Our kind Heavenly Father, as we come to Thee today, on this last day of this session, we thank Thee for Thy guidance and help which Thou hast given us through these months. We thank Thee for the opportunities which Thou hast given unto us to serve our fellow-men. Wherein we have failed we pray that it may be ascribed to head rather than to heart. Forgive us, guide us in this the last day that we may do those things which will be pleasing in Thy sight. As we return to our homes to take up the threads of our everyday life again and look out into the new world which is waiting for us, we pray that Thou will give us the strength and the courage which may be ordained when binding up the wounds of the world. We pray that Thou especially be with the boys and girls in the service; may the time soon come when they shall all come home again, and may we help them take up the threads of their young lives so that this world may be a better place to live in for all peoples.

We ask it in Jesus' name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. Thank you, Senator Ruth; that was a beautiful prayer.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE RESOLUTIONS

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolutions from the Senate as follows:

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER AND SECRETARY OF REVENUE TO FORMULATE PENNSYLVANIA ASSIGNED RISKS PLAN FOR PHYSICALLY DISABLED PERSONS

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, April 11, 1945.

There are many persons within the Commonwealth who, although skilled in the driving of automobiles, are denied the right so to do on account of physical disabilities which make the procurement of liability and property damage insurance impossible.

The return of fighting men from the battle fronts of the world will greatly increase this number, and the inability of many of those who desire every possible privilege and opportunity of enjoyment, to secure such insurance, will prevent their full use of automobiles.

It is not possible nor would it be advisable to compel insurance companies to accept such risks which in their experience are hazardous.

Many companies in Pennsylvania writing liability and property damage insurance have lately developed the "Pennsylvania Automobile Assigned Risks Plan" for the voluntary handling of liability and property damage insurance on persons who have come under the provisions of the Financial Responsibility Law.

The formation of a similar plan for the voluntary handling of liability and property damage insurance on persons physically handicapped, might be the means of affording such persons the coverage necessary to allow them to enjoy the privilege of driving an automobile, either for pleasure or in the carrying on of a business; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), By the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the Insurance Commissioner of the Commonwealth and the Secretary of Revenue of the Commonwealth are requested to meet and consult with representatives of the various casualty companies doing business within the Commonwealth, in an attempt to arrive at and formulate a plan for the organization of a Pennsylvania Assigned Risks Plan for the insuring of physically handicaped persons; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the Insurance Commissioner and to the Secretary of Revenue.

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO DEVELOP SOUND AND SCIENTIFIC FINANCIAL HIGHWAY PROGRAM

In the Senate, April 25, 1945.

Resolved (if the House concur) that it shall be the duty of the Joint State Government Commission (hereinafter called the Commission), in consultation with organizations of recognized national standing, to cause to be made a thorough and impartial study in order to determine the relative responsibilities and burdens which should, in equity, be placed on the Commonwealth and on political subdivisions in respect to financing the cost of the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of the highways of the Commonwealth, including all state and local highways, the amount of state-aid for highway purposes which should be granted by the Commonwealth to political subdivisions for highway purposes, and generally to develop a sound and scientific financial highway program for the Commonwealth and her political subdivisions; and for such purposes the Commission shall have power and its duty shall be to engage the services of not less than three individuals of recognized standing in the fields of highway economics and highway engineering, together with such assistants and clerks as may be deemed necessary by the Commission.

All departments of the State government and all political subdivisions shall assist the Commission in every possible way by making available and furnishing such data, records, information and advice relative to the study provided for by this resolution as may be deemed necessary by the Commission. For these purposes the Commission shall have the power to compel the appearances of witnesses and the production of books, papers and records, and to issue proper subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses on the production of books, papers, records and any and all other writings deemed necessary for the fulfillment of the duties prescribed in this resolution.

The Commission shall constitute and provide for the appointment of advisory committees, consisting of administrative officials of the State and local governments and of the representatives of organized groups having direct interest in and affected by the development of streets and highways, to aid in the study of the problems presented by this resolution.

The Commission shall make a full and complete report of its findings and recommendations to The General Assembly not later than March 1, 1947, together with such drafts of legislation as may be necessary to carry such recommendation into effect.

The costs and expenses of said study and report thereon shall be paid for out of special allocation of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) to the Commission from the Motor License Fund.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. The bill as amended will be laid on the table.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. At this time I would like to call to the Chair Senator DiSilvestro, from Philadelphia.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Anthony J. DiSilvestro) in the Chair.

NOMINATION AND ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed with election of a President pro tempore to serve during the interim.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Heyburn.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I yield to the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, who will present a nomination for President pro tempore on behalf of the Republican Caucus.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, as we come to the close of this useful session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, I have been assigned a most pleasant duty by the Republican caucus. As I make that remark, a useful session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, I say it because of the fact that we have had a tremendous number of bills presented to us, and we have passed a goodly share of those bills to protect the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. During that time we have had a man at the helm, a man as our leader, of sterling character, a man who has furnished real leadership to the Republican Party, to the Republican caucus and to the Senate of Pennsylvania. As a matter of fact, he has been a legislator for 365 days of the year. No day of the year is he so engaged as to decline a request of a single member of this Legislature. Under his leadershp we have enjoyed a harmony—certainly we have debated bills, certainly the opposition, our friendly opponents on the other side, have raised issues on different matters of legislation—but all through this session, I repeat, a harmony has prevailed, the like of which I have never observed before, and I say that because I have been a member of both House and the Senate and have served during several sessions.

I might bring up one criticism at this point. In one manner this man has failed only, and that is, while he was legislating here about the kind of animals that might be killed for food consumption for the citizens of Pennsylvania, he has failed in furnishing proper protection against the flying fowl of Dauphin county to some of the members. But I have confidence, ladies and gentlemen, as we close this session, that if we turn this matter over to Senator Crowe of Munroe the Senate chamber will be properly sterilized for the next session.

Again I repeat that under the leadership of the gentleman from Dauphin we have had a harmony here in the Pennsylvania Senate, and in both bodies of the Legislature, the like of which we have never experienced.

I like to refer to the words of Madam Chiang Kai-shek, who said science has made the world a neighborhood but men have not learned to live as neighbors. Here in Pennsylvania, under the leadership of Senator M. Harvey Taylor, we have learned to live as neighbors and we have furnished in this useful session of the Legislature legislation that will be beneficial to every class of our citizens, almost ten million in number.

Therefore, Mr. President, it is my duty and pleasure to place in nomination the choice of the Republican caucus, Senator M. Harvey Taylor of Dauphin county.

Mr. EALY. The House of Representatives selects its Speaker at the beginning of a session and he holds over during the session and the interim to the end of his term. Under the Constitution the Senate of Pennsylvania is required to elect a President pro tempore at the beginning and at the close of each regular session. Not only has it become customary to elect a Presdent pro tempore during the session and to re-elect him for the interim, but in this case the unanimous action of the Republican caucus has determined that Honorable M. Harvey Taylor shall be our President pro tempore for the interim and until the next session and I take very great pleasure in seconding this nomination.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other nominations?

Mr. DENT. I ask that the Senate be at ease for just one minute.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it is not often that we can depart from our regular political channels in the matter of the selection of a commanding officer and it gives me, and I know my colleagues on this side will join me, in the pleasure that it gives us, to be able to stand here and second the nomination of the very likable and capable gentleman who has served as President pro tempore during this regular session.

I am sure that during the interim if at any time any members of the Senate on this side find themselves in a position where they need a little of his fatherly counsel, if they come down to Harrisburg they will be greeted with open arms.

So Mr. President, on behalf of the Democratic Minority, I join with the Republican Majority in seconding the nomination of the Honorable M. Harvey Taylor for President pro tempore of the Senate.

NOMINATIONS CLOSED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any further nominations?

Mr. HEYBURN. I move that nominations for the office of President pro tempore of the Senate be closed.

Mr. WALKER. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Clerk will call the roll.

For Mr. Taylor:

PRESENT—1

Taylor,

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Honorable M. Harvey Taylor having received 48 votes, none dissenting, the Presiding Officer declares him to be duly elected President pro tempore of the Senate for the interim.

The Presiding Officer nominates a committee of three, Senator Walker, Senator Dent and Senator Wade, to escort the newly elected President pro tempore, Honorable M. Harvey Taylor, to the rostrum.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, the committee appointed to escort the newly elected President pro tempore to the rostrum, performs that duty with pleasure.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Presideng Officer welcomes the newley elected President pro tempore with the wish that during the interim his administration will be successful and progressive for the state of Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (M. Harvey Taylor). Gentlemen of the Senate, while I was sitting down in that chair there were a number of things that came to my mind I thought I would mention when I got up on the rostrum, but now I can not think of one of them. This is the greatest majority I have ever received, and I have been running for office all my life. Gracious, it is just wonderful.

I just want to say to Senator Wade, since I can control only one vote, he can not expect me to take care of the pigeons. I do not know why they pick him out every time. I have never been molested by the pigeons in the Senate but he has been three times in one day. He must have some attraction for them.

I certainly appreciate this honor; I know I do not deserve it, but thanks. I will be your errand boy, you fellows on this side. And I want to thank the gentlemen on the other side; you certainly have been gracious to me, because when a fellow is chairman of the Republican State Committee, if he does not get any more abuse than I do, you are pretty charitable.

I will do the very best in my power; I will do an honest job, I will promise you that.

Thanks a lot, fellows, and I will try to do a good job.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, just so that the record is complete, and so there is no misunderstanding, I would like to say that I was visited by a dove of peace and not a pigeon.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. I will have to answer that as Presiding Officer. If I told you what he called those pigeons—well, it was not dove of peace.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EALY. I should like, with permission, to say just a few words, which involve one of the other members of this Senate. Sometimes during this session, and during my career as a Senator heretofore, I have voted on bills simply from a matter of principle and in opposition to perhaps all the other Senators. Such was my vote on a bill permitting the mayor of Philadelphia to succeed himself. It is hard to explain a vote on principle alone. The road which I have traveled on principle and consistency has been a hard one and a lonely one. A road of supposed expediency and hysteria is a bright road that a good many travel, and so I have been lonely in some of those votes and I have done this against my real wishes, but if I have considered myself as a sort of martyr I will have to yield the palm because of a most appealing incident which happened during this session.

The Senator from Warren, representing his constituents from that county, made a request of Dr. Chapman, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations and the guardian of the state treasury, to give to the Warren Hospital a nice large appropriation, but Dr. Chapman, sitting in his capacity as Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, sternly rejected the application of Senator Chapman and cut the appropriation for this hospiial. That is an example of legislative fortitude that should be an example to us all.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I thought I finished up on hospitals yesterday but when my friend from Somerset talks about anyone taking a cut in an hospital appropriation, there is only one reason, that is, that they failed to earn their appropriation. Let us not kid anybody here by throwing out any bouquets that are not merited, because no one has taken a cut for any hospital if they earned their appropriation. I do not want to see my colleagues misled because, as I said yesterday, I shall render a public service to this Commonwealth to prove that the secretary to the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, who claims that he knows even more than you, Mr. President, and the budget secretary himself, he has made his boast, and I shall make it a public service to bring before this body authentic figures so that at the next session there will be no wild statements made about anybody taking a cut. In fact, he had to raise the per diem basis to keep from taking a cut and the only hospital which has taken a cut is the Miners' Hospital of Northern Cambria county.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, apparently I dare not attempt to make a little joke. Any time I tell a story with a little joke in it, the audience wonders whether I am trying to offer a prayer or something. This is the last day of the session and this appealed to me as a very funny joke about Dr. Chapman. I meant it in that respect, and I was rather surprised that everybody took it as a very solemn statement.

Mr. JASPAN. I wish to congratulate Senator Chapman because as Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations at least this year he held a few meetings to which we were invited.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, at the beginning of this session I went down to the news room and at that time some of the men down there asked me if I would use any influence I might have to have a new system of lighting installed in the news room. After reading some of the stories that come out of there I think they do need some guiding light in there, so I am going to ask the President pro tempore if he will use his influence in that office to try to get some indirect lighting or better lighting installed in the news room before the next session.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. At this time I would like to call Senator Wade to the Chair. Senator Wade, will you kindly preside for a few minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (George N. Wade) in in the Chair.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills and reports of committees of conference to be noted on the Calendar, be dispensed with for the balance of the session.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS

CONFEDERATE FLAGS TO BE RETURNED TO STATES WHOSE REGIMENTS CARRIED THEM

In the House of Representatives, April 26, 1945.

In a glass case in a room of the Museum Building, there are now displayed the regimental flags of several Confederate Regiments.

They represent the valor of the Pennsylvania organizations which were responsible for their capture, but the years have paled the flags and although the valor and bravery of those who captured them has not dimmed, the reason for the retention of those flags as evidence of that valor and bravery, is no more.

The Nation exists today united and undivided, and the flags that now are displayed in our Museum are as much a part of the records and archives of the States whose men at arms carried them into battle, as they are of Pennsylvania whose soldiers carried them out of battle. It is therefore fitting that they should now be returned to the States from which they came therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concurs), by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, That His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, is hereby requested and authorized to have the flags of the several Confederate Regiments that are now on display in the Museum Building removed therefrom, and that after the said flags have been repaired and made safe for transport that His Excellency, the Governor, shall at a time and place and in such manner as he deems proper return the said flags into the custody of the States whose regiments carried them, in order that they may there be preserved as mementoes of those regiments

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted to His Excellency, the Governor, by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution will be laid on the table.

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HOMSHER, from the Committee on Appropriations, re-reported as committed, House Bill No. 143, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation to aid certain school districts.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be laid on the table.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, with respect to House Bill No. 143, which I just re-reported from the Committee on Appropriations, I would like to say just a few words to explain this bill. This bill provides a deficiency appropriation of $300,000 for distressed school districts. The amount needed as presented by the Department to allocate to those districts which are distressed amounts to nearly this much money. The bill for the next biennium provides only $1,000,000 to pay distressed school districts and therefore it is most essential that this Legislature at this time appropriate this deficiency of $300,000.

I request that the bill be approved.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the gentleman from Lancaster ask unanimous consent to have consideration of this bill on third reading at this time.

Mr. HOMSHER. That is correct, Mr. President.

HOUSE BILL No. 143 TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to consider House Bill No. 143 at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this amendment are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the Report of Committee of Conference?

Mr. JASPAN. As I stated before, when this bill came up for final passage, I opposed it becouse it eliminates the equity of redemption and I think that is a very dangerous practice. On Wednesday of this week Senator Troutman in a similar bill struck out a provision that eliminated equity of redemption. I went along on that and I therefore feel the entire Senate should go along with me, as they did with Senator Troutman.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the Report of Committee of Conference?

Section 4 This act shall apply to releases and disclaimers heretofore and hereafter delivered

Section 6 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the questions,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, this bill relates to spendthrift trusts. If the Senators will refer to House Bill No. 641, Printer's No. 466, they will find an amendment on page 3. That amendment reads: "Any power of appointment including any power of consumption whether general or special other than a power in trust which is imperative and any interest in to or over real or personal property or the income therefrom held or owned outright or in trust or in any other manner which is reserved or given to any person by deed will or otherwise howsoever and irrespective of any limitation of such power or interest by virtue of any restriction in the nature of a so-called spendthrift trust provision or similar provision may be released or disclaimed either with or without consideration by written instrument signed by the person possessing the power or the interest and delivered as hereinafter provided."

To me that is a conglomerate conglomeration of words and it takes a Pittsburgh lawyer to unravel the meaning of that phraseology. But what the sponsor of this bill says—not the sponsor but the man who wrote the bill, a Mr. Stambach of Pittsburgh—is that it is a bill to permit a spendthrift trust to be transferred by a trustee or any other person in interest, which would be the beneficiary, of course, to another. In final analysis and ultimate deduction it means that a spendthrift trust in Pennsylvania can no longer be sustained unless it is expressly provided by the testator or the donor. I do not believe that is good law in Pennsylvania. Therefore I have been against this bill because no spendthrift should be permitted to disclaim or release his interest in a trust.

What is a spendthrift? It is an individual who has been prodigal, perhaps, in his life or an individual who is unable to hold money. You know, in the course of our lives we meet many folks who can earn plenty of money but can save very little, and so the testator or the donor, as the case may be, may desire to protect that individual from his own weaknesses and, being a father, mother, relative or other interested person, may set up for him or her a spendthrift trust so the donee can not spend the money, can not waste the estate, can not dispose of the property.

This bill proposes, as amended, to permit a trustee and the person having the interest, who would be the donee, the beneficiary, the life tenant, the privilege of converting the whole or any part of that interest to another.

In section 3 this bill provides that in the case of a spendthrift trust, however, the gift or conveyance can only be made to a remainderman. That does not cover the situation entirely because as I see it anybody for whom a spendthrift trust is created can enter into an agreement with a remainderman to transfer his interest to such remainderman in consideration of the refund of a portion of it or in payment of a part of it, or a stated sum, and so it opens wide the gates for fraud and therefore it should not be countenanced.

I believe that spendthrift trusts are a very valuable arrangement. Many of the banks throughout the state of Pennsylvania have these trusts. They are made for a very excellent purpose and the stability, permanency and validity of those trusts should not be impinged or voided in any manner. This bill will do that.

We have talked about correcting the bill so that it would not be quite as bad. It was suggested that if the remainderman might be a charitable institution, religious institution or trust company, then, with the approval of the court having jurisdiction over such trust, a relief or disclaimer may be executed, but of course that is the law today, not this amendment, and it seems the only thing to do to preserve these spendthrift trusts in their integrity, in their stability, in their sterility, will be to defeat this bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COX. It is my privilege to present the position of the minority, the great Democratic Party of Pennsylvania, with regard to this bill. We are going to cast our eighteen votes for this bill because we realize that this is the last night of this session of the Legislature and there is nothing else we can do in our plea to better the conditions of the school teachers of Pennsylvania. On Thursday night we did everything in our power to increase the compensation which this bill would give to the school teachers of Pennsylvania and to increase the distribution of funds to the various school districts throughout this Commonwealth.

Tonight we have to make a choice—whether this bill should be defeated or whether it should pass. We are not satisfied with the contents of the bill, but we admit frankly that there is an increase in the amount of compensation paid to the various classes of school teachers, and there also is an increase in the amount of distribution of funds of the Commonwealth to the various school districts, and for those reasons we are going to vote for the bill.

We sincerely hope that the men who are interested in the problem of education in Pennsylvania, as evidenced by their consideration of the matter in this session of the Legislature, will continue their interest in the future so that perhaps in 1947 there will be real reform in the educational system of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. President, I would like to be permitted to have about five minutes to sum up the considered opinion of educators on the current version of House Bill No. 568. I rather regret that the Senator from Allegheny did not permit Senator Homsher or myself to speak first this evening. I think I might have saved him a bit of embarrassment.

I studiously avoided any injection of politics in the presentation of our amendments the other evening because to improve our public schools is a matter of common interest and concern to statesmen regardless of political affiliations.

In fact, I have always felt a bit kindly towards Democrats, because when I was a very small boy my dear old grandfather was an old line Democrat and he would wager me every election that the Democrats would win, so pretty nearly every time there was an election I ate ice cream, and a Democrat to my mind came to mean chocolate ice cream for Sunday night supper.

My second reason for making my statement about avoiding embarrassment is because tonight there is no longer anything to debate about this bill. At five o'clock Friday morning there might have been something about which to argue, but at ten o'clock on Saturday night word has come from all corners of the state that this is considered the most magnificent school legislation that Pennsylvania has adopted in a hundred years.

About twenty-nine years ago we enacted into law the present Edmonds Act, which has redowned to the everlasting credit of Senator Edmonds, its sponsor, and I say to you this evening that within the next two years, whether you are a member of this Senate at that time, on either side of the Senate, or whether you be a judge or back in private life, you will be boasting about the fact that you voted "yes" on House Bill No. 568 and you will be ashamed by that time to have anybody look at the record and see how much you were worried about it.

I emphasized as clearly as I could the other morning that this was not a teacher's bill, it was a school bill, but I am very happy that we, the sponsors of the bill, were able to include increases for teachers in it.

I would like to point out to the gentleman from Allegheny county, and to those who are genuinely interested in teachers, that the fourth class district teacher—about whom we worried so much for so many years—will have a mandated minimum salary with increments of $2,100 a year, and that fourth class district school teachers will be entitled, at the age of 62, to retire at a compensation of $1,000 a year, which is more than the yearly mandated salary during the Earle administration.

I tell you, gentlemen, have no concern, everybody will be well taken care of. My only regret tonight is that my own name does not appear somewhere among the sponsors of this bill, because they are going to have a place in school history similar to that which Senator Edmonds has enjoyed these many years.

I want to add a further thought, which may be helpful. It is just possible that somebody in the Senate may not be thoroughly conversant and familiar with all the details of this bill. We have, through the courtesy of the State Education Association, a four page summation of just exactly what this bill does. When you go back home and you boast of the fact that this bill passed by unanimous vote of the Senate, as I think it will be unanimously concurred in by the House, I want you to take this folder along and I can assure you that you will be able to explain and answer anything regarding the provisions of the bill. I shall bring copies around personally to you members on both sides of the Senate, if I may pay you a little visit, and I am going to submit a copy of it for the record so that your constituents who get the Legislative Journal can see it. I am only going to call your attention to one correction that ought to be made, on the first page. When you get this you will find, about half way down the page, a schedule which provides for principals with more than twenty-five teachers a minimum salary of $2,200, with four increments of $100 each. It shows four on the sheet which I am going to give you, but five is the correct number of increments for principals with more than twenty-five teachers.

I am happy to make this statement, gentlemen, because Senator Homsher and I have had entrusted to us a great responsibility in the disposition of this bill and we want to say to the Senators on each side of the Senate who have given us their confidence that they need have no fear of the job that has been done.

I want to say further that no man could have been more sympathetic and concerned with this piece of legislation than Governor Edward Martin. Day after day he sat down at luncheon, and gave of his valuable time, as high as two hours, to discussion with the sponsors of the bill and the representatives of the Senate, each and all of its features, and the effects that it would have upon our public school system, and I am very emphatic about that, because frankly, as a friend of the public schools and as a man who has fought in the line of legislation for all these betterments for the interests of the teachers and the children, it makes me very disturbed to find some people have failed to appreciate the magnificent advances in appropriations and subsidies to schools that have been gained because of the interest of the present Governor of the state of Pennsylvania.

When he goes out of office and looks back at the increase from some $61,000,000 in 1937 to $130,000,000 plus millions of dollars which will be appropriated for school purposes in the next biennium, with an additional $16,000,000 pledged for the following biennium, he will have every occasion in the world to be proud not only of the contribution that he made to this state and nation as a soldier but also the contribution that he has made to education as Governor.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have included in the Legislative Journal the summations of the provisions of House Bill No. 568, entitled "Summarized Provisions of H. B. 568."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? The Chair hears none. Permission is granted.

Incentive for Teacher Growth

All professional employes in all school districts of this Commonwealth hereinbefore referred to who have earned a Master's Degree at a college or university approved by the State Council of Education and who have received all increments provided for by this act shall be entitled to two additional annual increments of $100 each.

The Cost of Living increases made a part of the permanent salary schedule.

Reimbursement by Commonwealth and Between School Districts

The unit of reimbursement measured by the number of pupils—22 high school pupils constitute a unit and 30 elementary pupils constitute a unit.

The amount of reimbursement of subsidy

Maximum $1800 for two year and $2000 each year thereafter per teacher unit.

Distribution on a standard reimbursement fraction

This formula was the one recommended by the School Commission. When applied it recognizes the capacity of the district to support school as well as its need. The poorer the district the greater will be the support from the State under equalization. The wealthier the district the less support, with a guarantee that no district shall receive less than $600 per teaching unit.

In determining the ability of the district to support schools, the assessed value in effect for county purposes is used.

Tuition—A revision is made of the present method of computing and reimbursing high school and elementary school tuition. That is, again, a recommendation of the School Commission.

The method of determining reimbursement, namely the standard reimbursement fraction is used for not only determining subsidies for teachers but also transportation, tuition, and other phases of the school program.

A special reimbursement is provided for special types of education as follows:

Vocational, agricultural and industrial education .....$35 per pupil
Home Economics education .....$20 per pupil
Distributive education .....$50 per pupil
Physically handicapped children .....$30 per pupil
Mentally handicapped children .....$20 per pupil

Extension classes and home-bound children reimbursed on the standard reimbursement fraction

PUTTING THE PLAN INTO EFFECT

The appropriations for school purposes under present laws are paid one year after the expenditures by the school district. The machinery required to put this bill into effect does not permit the use of the equalization for next year. The bill provides that for next year school districts shall receive their regular appropriation plus cost of living in like amount and manner as last year, plus $100 per teacher in third and fourth class districts. The equalization phases of the bill will become effective in the succeeding year of the biennium so far as payments to the districts are concerned. The effect of the application of a bill so extensive in its provisions as this one cannot be determined in advance for each individual district.

To safeguard each district in the Commonwealth, therefore, the bill provides that for the year 1946-47, the first year that the equalization formula will be effective, no district shall receive a less amount from the State than it received during 1945-46.

The equalization formula when it becomes effective will for two years enable each school district to provide $1800 worth of education per teacher—pupil unit at a local tax levy of five mills on the county assessed value of real estate and thereafter to provide an additional cost program of $2000 per teacher-pupil at the same local tax on real estate, namely, five mills.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

RISING VOTE OF THANKS

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I move you that this body give a rising vote of thanks to Senator Homsher, Chairman of the Committee on Education, and to Senator Wagner, for making a tremendous contribution to the fine cause of education in Pennsylvania and for their untiring efforts in seeing that the two bodies have been brought together and that House Bill No. 568 has been passed on an equitable basis; I move you, Sir, that a rising vote of thanks be given.

Mr. TAYLOR. I second the motion, Mr. President.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the question of how well a job has been done is always one of opinion. I do not want to take a negative position in this matter, but while we are standing up in order to give credit to two gentlemen on the other side who have worked so diligently towards reaching some conclusion in this important matter, I believe that we ought to include in that a member of the minority who, although he fought hard and long for a greater grant than what is being given under this bill, it must always be remembered that the greater reforms come from a minority fighting for them, and so, with the permission of the man who made the motion, I would like to include in that group to be honored at this time by a rising vote of thanks, Senator John Freemont Cox and Senator Frank W. Ruth, who have worked so diligently for this legislation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is the amendment accepted?

Mr. WADE. I amend the motion to include the entire Committee on Education.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. President, if I may have order for just about one minute I want to make my position clear on this bill.

For reasons which I believe I have at least distinctly enunciated formerly at this session on this proposition, I am going to refrain from voting on this bill, so I ask those who keep the record to show that the Senator from the 37th District is present and is not voting because he is personally affected to such an extent by the provisions of this measure. As I said before, my reasons have been stated fully and completely, and therefore I state here that I am refraining from voting.

It is with deep regret that the people who have had these matters in charge did not visit the fourth inspectoral district and take into consideration the facts and the figures and the number of people who are engaged in business, and the names of whom I have placed upon the record, giving their names and tonnage, and take into consideration that which affects them and how it affects differently the acreage in all of the up-state, beginning with perhaps Indiana and Jefferson and the rest of those counties further north.

It is not my purpose at this time to take up the time of the Senate or to take a position that would be unpopular and therefore with that I shall stop, but I want to call attention to the fact that the Senators present and others concerned known full well how I feel upon this proposition. Not only do they know full well about how I feel on this proposition, but they know how it will affect production in the particular districts which I have mentioned. I want to thank you.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WILSON. Mr. President, I rise on a matter of personal privilege.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Jefferson will proceed.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. President, I merely wish to take a very few minutes of your time, in the last hours of this session, to tell you something of what it means to live and what it means to be present at a goodly number of sessions of the Legislature, feeling that the things I have seen and the things I have learned should at least be said to those who are associated with me, with the hope that something may move out from them to the public so that the public may have a little better understanding of what is done and how it is done.

As you all know, I have been familiar with the doings of the Legislature since 1899, not always as a member, but all during that time I have been here during the sessions almost continuously. Beginning as a member in 1899 the impressions that were made on me I found were very often incorrectly formed because I did not know how things were done, and I did not known why they were done, and I did not know that the general public did not have sufficient knowledge of the importance of what was being done.

I remember when the Constitution was adopted. One of the main reasons fir having the present Constitution was to do away with so much legislation. Those of you who are present to vote now should look up the laws as they were passed in the sixties and in the beginning of the seventies and until the Constitution went into effect, because you have missed something, as nearly everything would be pertaining to local affairs. The Constitution did a great deal. There were a lot of provisions that made it easy and we had general laws in the State of Pennsylvania and a number of things like that.

Going on from session to session, and having served in the keeping of the Journal of the Senate as early as 1907, and having in many ways taken part in writing and reading certain measures, and making suggestions here and there, because of peculiar circumstance, I feel I should say these words to you.

Beginning with January of this year, this present session has been a session that has had so many difficulties that we have not been able to keep track of what has been done or to pay attention to what has been brought to our notice and given to us to work upon.

Remember, if you are a member of the Senate or a member of the House, you have had to come since the first of January every week to Harrisburg, except the second week, and those of us who live up-state and had a great distance to go had to come under great difficulties. I wish to boast that I have driven my car about 180 miles every one of the weeks, except that second week that we did not have a session, and I wish to boast that I have not missed a session, and I wish to boast that I have not dodged an issue, and I wish to boast that when I made a statment to you I honestly believed I was telling the truth. That is the reason I told you the truth on the stripping bill and that is the reason behind the scenes. I told you the truth about the teachers' bill, the last one of all the groups that came here, and I told you about it, and behind the scenes I told you something about the state teachers' colleges and what part the teachers play in our great state and how we have to reach out in the country to get country teachers, and the many things that we learn by living in the country.

I feel that surely a man is justified and excused in saying now something about the country people. The country people produce the teachers who teach in the country, and they produce the simple things in the line of industry, and they produce the simple things for all of the affairs of life, and you can only wonder how they get along under such conditions.

This is one statement I want to make: all during these years, and up to the present, I have gradually come to the conclusion that we endeavor to do too much and more and more we are slipping a little, getting back to conditions as they were during the sixties, to over-legislate. Do you know it is impossible for us even to read intelligently the propositions, the propositions are so many? 1288 House bills have been introduced at this session, 62 resolutions, 780 Senate bills, 58 Senate resolutions. Whenever a bill in the past did not suit somebody and got into law, that somebody got busy and came to Harrisburg, or got someone else to come to Harrisburg, and had the bill re-written or amended or fixed in some way different from what it was before. Those who make drafts of our laws are called upon to keep busy all the time to comply, if their constitution permits them to do so.

Just stop and think. No Senator, no member, no person anywhere could read these large laws, and digest them, and so you have got to get people to help you, hours upon hours in caucus, and hours upon hours in offices, if you do the things that the oath of your office requires you to do, you study these bills, and then you come here and find under certain circumstances it is not right to take up the time of the Senate or the House to tell those who are associated with you what it is about.

Now I have a suggestion. I have a suggestion that the public should refrain from asking the Senators or members to do anything unless it is absolutely necessary. And I ask the Senators and the members that when a proposition comes before them and it makes an impression and they feel it should be done, to digest as thoroughly as they can what it is. When they father and sponsor a bill, and when they rise on the floor of this Senate and say "I do not know, this is introduced by request," you can see what I am trying to drive at.

I only suggested about two or three bills and I want to tell you what they are. I have only suggested one since I have been a member of the Local Government Commission and that I found out about after fifty years of experience. I did not tell anybody what to do, but I made the suggestion that the tax collector's bill ought to be studied and changed because they are all under different laws, each tax collector is under a different law; he must have a different kind of a bond, with different conditions. Those things I merely suggested. I did not tell anybody how they should vote. We worked on it for months and months. The reason I requested that, there were different reasons given for it, and people in my own district wondered why these things have been suggested, only suggested, because the duty of my office required me to do so.

Do you see what I am trying to tell you? The general public does not know how we vote. The general public does not understand that some of us believe that we have overdone it, and in union there is strength, and the various people should have unions—and I do not mean unions from the labor standpoint, I mean unions of people who are doing certain things in life. Of course, we must expect them, but once you have those things everybody who tries to get some action with them should be very sure that it is fair with regard to other people, with regards to the rights of other people.

I want to pay a compliment to the Senators, and I am sure I could do the same thing in the House if I was on the floor of the House because I know many of them intimately, and I want to say that the Senators have been open and frank behind the scenes. The Senators have argued this, that and the other, and they have sat and listened to every argument that was presented to them, and some of them were tired, and yet they had to do the things that were necessary to do, when really safety of health, life, and happiness would have required them to do something else. Some people say "Oh, what an easy job they have." Well, when you consider what we have to do and the manner in which it is done, it is not an easy job at all. I am making this suggestion with the hope that the public will look over the thought and see if it is possible not to make so many requests.

Secondly, I wish when they do make an argument, that they give the argument clearly and distinctly to the other members or the Senators, and I wish the Senators would not carry so many bills around and be the one to introduce a bill and say "well, it was handed to me to introduce, but I do not understand it." I want you to know that is not intended as an insult. It is intended to get less legislation and better legislation. Whenever you give anything to the public the whole story should be told, not only just some good things, but what the argument is on the other side.

It is not often that I take up the time of the Senate, and the only reason I do it now is because I feel this is the time to do it. Our session is done, and the work you have done faithfully and diligently, but you have been required to scatter your efforts too much, and you will be criticized for some of the things that you are doing. In the last two or three weeks of each session the affairs are crowded and they go too rapidly and you are under a tension, the Senators are under a tension, and the members of the House are under a tension, and one of the main reasons is just the same as it was in the Civil War. One of the main reasons is because of the way the sons and daughters of close friends, by the hundreds and perhaps thousands, are across the way taking part.

I do feel really and truly, if you would take a different approach to legislation and make it possible for laws to be written so that it will not be necessary to rewrite them before they can be printed, that it would be better for all of us. I hope you will take it in the spirit in which I have uttered it.

I want to compliment you, from the Governor down, I want to compliment you, regardless of party, because some of the nicest things about these thoughts have come to me from the other side, and that is the truth, but I want to say that I am a Republican first, last and all the time, but I think we ought to work together, and we ought to work for the common good, and we ought to work together congenially and we ought to work together carefully and faithfully.

To every one present, I greet you and I hope that you may live to be old and take an interest in these affairs and report here often, as you do, and carry on with a grand spirit, the American spirit if you please, the same as you did in the past. I want to thank you for your very nice attention, and I want to thank you for giving me this opportunity, and I request that you take it in the spirit in which I have uttered it. I thank you.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. At this time I would like to call to the Chair the Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Wade.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (George N. Wade) in the Chair.

PRESENTATIONS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the distinguished Senator from Erie, Mr. Blass.

Mr. BLASS. Mr. President, members of the Senate, and visitors, it has been very often truthfully said that friendship is one of the most cherished treasures of mankind and is worth more than wealth and the resources that most of us often seek to attain. In my opinion the wealth of an individual is not measured by the money or the personal effects or the worldly things that he acquires, but it is measured by the number of friendships that he has formed and which he has been able to carry through enduring life.

It has been indeed a pleasure to be with you, and as the session is about ready to end it will be with some regret at this time that I will wend my way back to the shores of Lake Erie, but I can truthfully assure you that I will miss the joy and exhilaration that has met me every morning when I gazed into the familiar faces in the chamber of this august tribunal. I will miss the sound of the gavel on the rostrum; I will miss the earnestness of both the Majority and the Minority Leaders; I will miss the serious demeanor of the Chairman of the Republican Caucus, and I will above all miss all my friends on both sides of this chamber. There is not a one among you that I do not count as a friend.

Among my friends in this chamber there is one man who stands out above all others, more in a paternal light to me, and that is our worthy and our distinguished President pro tempore, my friend M. Harvey Taylor. I believe that he is held in the highest honor and esteem by every member and every Senator in this chamber, and worthily so. We all know the tremendous effort and labor that he has given for the benefit and the interest of our great Republican Party, for which we never will have any apology to offer. He has carefully, efficiently and excellently performed the duties of his office as President pro tempore. He has been very careful and courteous and fatherly to all our young Senators, and, God bless him, we needed assistance very many times, but he has been able to steer us in the right direction.

But, Harvey, the success and the attainments that you have made and secured are not due entirely to your own efforts. There is another person that is largely and primarily responsible for your success. That is your life partner, the one who is nearest and dearest to your heart and, as in the case of every one of us, the influence of a good woman is always reflected in the deeds of mankind. We can only go so far as that influence will permit us and everything that we attain and everything that we secure has that influence, that benign protection, behind it.

Therefore, Mr. President pro tempore and my friend, I have the great honor and the privilege, on behalf of the Republican Senators of this assemblage, your colleagues and mine, as a token of their affectionate regard for you, to present to you this beautiful ring, bought for the use and benefit of the party primarily responsible, who has been your guiding star, Mrs. Taylor, who will shape your destiny through the years to come.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is glad to recognize Senator Taylor.

Mr. TAYLOR. Gentlemen, I want to look at this first. I will explain that this is a ring for Mrs. Taylor, and I want to say to you if she were here she would be much more embarrassed than I—she is much more modest than I am.

All I can say is God bless you and thank you.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes the distinguished gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Troutman.

Mr. TROUTMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, in the closing hours of this, my first session, I am simply amazed at all of the bills that find their way into the various committees and all the legislation that is adopted in both Houses of this Assembly. When you consider that over twelve hundred bills have been fathered in the House and about eight hundred in the Senate, you can have an idea of the maze of legislation which must be passed upon in this Assembly. In that great maze of legislation, covering all subjects that man can devise and invent, it is necesary that we have superb leadership. There is a particular responsibility devolving upon the majority to engineer a program through, to see that legislation is adopted and their party platform adopted, and in that leadership we members of the majority side have found a man who has exhibited a patience the like of which I have never seen. From early in the morning till late at night we can approach our Majority Floor Leader with all sorts of questions, and never once does he turn us aside, but he tries to find the proper and correct answer. On the floor of this Senate he has displayed those qualities of leadership and direction which have brought about a comparatively short session of this Generel Assembly.

To you, Senator Heyburn, tonight we members of the Republican side wish to express our gratitude for your fine superb leadership. You know, sometimes you are referred to as a farmer, and I think you can be justifiably proud of that vocation, and with one foot in the furrow and you yourself behind the plow, and looking straight ahead, I know there can be nothing ahead but success.

Of course, we members of the Republican side have taken into consideration the fact that we have kept you here for long hours in the discharge of your duties, and we know that in the months to come your good wife and partner will insist that you get back into her good graces, and in order to help you we have selected a gift, not to be used by you personally but by her, and with it goes our esteem and affection for a real, courageous Majority Floor Leader.

Mr. HEYBURN. These fellows must have been buying rings wholesale.

Mr. President, Senator Troutman and my colleagues, I am very grateful for this presentation here tonight. At last I have something to show the people down in Concordville, to prove to them I have been able to acquire something in the Senate of Pennsylvania.

There is no doubt I have been away from home a lot, and I just do not know how things are back home right at this time, but I am telling you when I get back with this gift everything is going to be fine.

I am very grateful to you folks for that, too, because when I get home—I do not know whether the plowing has been done or not—but now it is about time to plant corn, and I will not have any time to try to get a woman pacified.

I am very grateful to you and I will remember this occasion as long as I see this ring on my wife's hand.

I want you to know, rather than you fellows giving me a present, I ought to be giving you one, because there never was a leader of any party in any legislative body in the world who had finer support than I have had now for quite a long time. It is a real pleasure and a distinct honor to be the Majority Leader of such a fine bunch of fellows and, while I am talking to Republicans, I want to say that my friends to the left have been very considerate and very kind to me, and if I have to have opponents, I do not know a nicer bunch of fellows than my friends on the left. I want you to know you have made a real contribution to food production this year. I will get back home next week and get the farm in shape and I am sure I am going to be a pretty popular fellow for at least four or five weeks. Thank you very much.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, the Democratic Minority no less appreciates the splendid job done by the gentleman from Westmoreland in ably handling the Minority Party's position in the session now drawing to a close. We call him Johnny, not out of any undue familiarity but rather out of a spirit of endearment—we like the fellow.

At the age of sixteen Johnny Dent joined the United States Marines, spent four years in the service of that great fighting organization, and on his return entered politics. The former Marine immediately established a beachhead on the Republican front in Westmoreland county and had the situation well in hand.

Anyone who assumes a position of leadership must perpetually live in the white light of publicity. Whether leadership is vested in a manufactured article or in an individual, envy and jealously are ever at work. But that was not true with respect to our Minority Leader. Everybody was delighted to work with him and to help him do the grand job he did in this particular session.

On the minority side we have eighteen individuals representing various racial groups, each with a separate and distinct personality, each with his various characteristics and mannerisms, each one making his contribution to the democratic side, sometimes gay, irrepressible, and sometimes moody and melancholic, and it took a dynamic personality like Senator Dent to weld this group into a powerful, militant and well organized minority in this session of the Legislature. We are proud of Johnny Dent.

One thing that will always stand out in my recollection, Mr. President, is the night we were considering the unemployment compensation and the workmen's compensation bills. Senator Dent stood on the floor of the Senate of Pennsylvania, presenting the Minority Party's position with vigor and determination, notwithstanding the fact that there was in his heart an inexpressible sorrow because of the passing of a brother, a brother who spent many years in vaudeville, a great performer and a great trouper. Johnny Dent carried on in the true tradition of the theater, that the show must go on, and a week later, when he returned to the Senate of Pennsylvania, he was only in this chamber ten minutes before his voice was once again raised in defense of the Minority Party's position.

We are proud of him. He is a great fellow, an excellent story-teller and a great personality. We hope that the job he has done here may merit recognition from the leadership of the party in the state. Johnny Dent's Meteoric rise in public life in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is a dramatic illustration of the possibilities of American young-manhood, imbued with a firm determination to make good.

In behalf of the Minority, who feel he has done a great job for us—we like and admire him tremendously—it is my privilege to present to him a traveling bag, and to his very devoted wife, who has been a great partner of his and who has helped him up the political ladder, the same sort of a gift, carrying with it the best wishes, I know, not only of the minority but also of the majority members of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, there seems to be a double significance to the wonderful gift that just has been presented to me. When I first started out in public life, every time they had a little banquet or something and wanted to present me with some gift, they always gave me a watch, and I sort of figured it was a gentle hint that I should watch the time and not talk so darned long, and now it seems that maybe I have been here too long and they are giving me a bag so that I can travel and keep going. However, they have been very careful in that they want me to keep traveling with the greatest traveling companion a fellow ever had —my wife.

You know, standing up here and hearing a lot of things said about you that are so nice, you are reminded of a story and, if I may, I shall inject a little story into the situation, the story of the Irishman that died; he had not been too good to his family, and as he was laid out in his coffin, in the church, the priest in the usual manner forgot all the bad deeds he had performed and was heaping upon him great praise, and in his eulogy he said "here we have before us tonight the remains of Casey, one of the great parisioners of this church, a man who always stood for all that is good in the community and one who has been an excellent father and a wonderful, dutiful husband" and the widow, who was sitting in the first pew, nudged her oldest son and said "Patty, you had better sneak a look; I do not think that is your father he is talking about."

That is the way I feel here. I do say this though, never has a man had the privilege of serving with a grander group of boys than I have on my side; never has a person had a greater loyalty than that which has been exemplified by their strict adherence to duty here.

I will say this without fear of contradiction, the boys on the Democratic side of the Senate have worked as a unit, working at all times for that goal they were trying to achieve, each by his own methods, which reminds me of another story. This is the story of two missionaries who came back home after spending twenty some years in one of the pagan countries and, as they left on the same boat, they were both standing near the stern, and as the shore line receded the one missionary turned to the other and he said "after all these years here, do you not feel a little sorrowful about leaving, although there ought to be joy in our hearts because we have taught the word of God," and the other missionary said "yes, we ought to feel good, we have tried to teach the word, you in your way and me in His."

That is the way some of us feel about legislation. We oftentimes get into fights but we all recognize one thing, each man here, I believe, votes as his conscience dictates; I believe that each one of us tries to do his job as best he can.

I want to say to Majority Leader Weldon Heyburn that it has been a pleasure to work with him. He is that type of man that does not get excited too quickly, the perfect type of man that has smoothed over a lot of ruffled feelings at times.

I have a great deal of personal regard for Weldon, and maybe that dates back to the days when he and I sat together and we voted together and we sort of understood each other, and that understanding has carried on through the years, and it has been my expressed wish many times that sooner or later Weldon will come back over here and we can vote together, as I know that we often think together. Thank you.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Potter, Senator Berger.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President and members of the Senate, there is no more pleasant duty that could have been assigned to me by my Republican colleagues in this body than the one which now I am about to discharge.

During this session I have formed a high regard for every member of this body, but for no one have I formed a higher regard than the man whom the Republican Caucus seeks to honor here tonight.

Prior to the commencement of this session the Republican members met and elected a chairman to preside over their—I might say deliberations, I might say bickerings—but as this session draws to a close, to its final hours, I know there is not a member of that Republican Caucus who would say we made the slightest mistake in our selection. No one could have wielded the gavel with more fairness, more firmness or more finesse than Senator Tallman, Chairman of the Republican Caucus, and so, as a token of the appreciation of the members of that Caucus, we desire tonight to present to him a gift that will serve not only to remind him of the esteem in which his colleagues hold him, but will serve to remind him of the part which the gracious lady who is Mrs. Tallman has played in the success of his career.

Senator Tallman, it is a great pleasure for me, on behalf of your Republican colleagues in the caucus, to make this presentation.

Mr. TALLMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I first want to say Mrs. Tallman is doing quite well in the Senate. I remember that two years ago my colleagues on this side of the Senate very graciously honored me with a token of their esteem and Mrs. Tallman was the beneficiary of that token, and I am very happy indeed to receive this in her behalf.

Certainly I want to say I am very very greatly appreciative that the members of the Republican Caucus should honor me with any token at all, because I am satisfied that there is not a man who comes to this Senate, whichever party he may represent, who leaves here without a new understanding of his fellowmen, without new regard for other people's ideas, and without deep appreciation for the friendly and fine relationships which develop in a man's service in this Senate.

I feel I should say to my colleagues on this side that I appreciate very much this gift, because I know it carries with it from them to me a warmth and an affection that few men have the opportunity to gain in their lifetime. I also want to take this opportunity to say that I have much appreciated the opportunity to serve with the gentleman on the other side, and there have been fine and warm friendships that have grown from it.

To all the members of this Senate, and more particularly those of them who have honored me with this gift, I say to them there moves from me warm wishes, good wishes, and the hope always that they will be successful and happy.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to add his compliments and congratulations to those gentlemen who have been remembered, and to say to them if these peace offerings provided by the love and affection of their comrades are not sufficient, we will do our best to provide a dove of peace.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED TO PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the order of business of swearing in the newly elected President pro tempore for the interim.

Mr. JAMES. I second the motion, Mr. President.

The motion was agreed to.

Whereupon the oath of office was administered to M. Harvey Taylor as President pro tempore for the interim by Judge J. Paul Rupp of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County.

THANKS OF SENATE EXTENDED TO JUDGE RUPP

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I move that the thanks of the Senate of Pennsylvania be extended to his Honor, Judge Rupp, of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, for coming here this evening and swearing in our newly elected President pro tempore of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The thanks of the Senate will be noted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now invites to the rostrum the newly elected President pro tempore.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (M. Harvey Taylor) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE. At this time I would like to call to the rostrum the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Tallman.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (O. J. Tallman) in the Chair.

Section 1102 General Repeal All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, there is no question on the part of the members on this side of the Senate relative to House Bill No. 411, except that its contents can not properly have been studied by the various members of the Senate, and we therefore take the position that we will leave it entirely up to the individual members who may have had an opportunity to study it. Personally I have not had that opportunity and I feel that the subject is one that should have careful study, and I therefore intend personally to vote "no." However, it is a matter of individual opinion or conscience.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, for the information of the Minority Leader, there are several members on this side of the aisle who have not made up their minds about this bill either, but the Governor of the state has promised that he will have this bill checked very carefully by the Department of Justice within the thirty day period, and, if it is not in proper form, he will veto it. I think it is only fair to tell that to this body—as a matter of fact, I have not had a chance to read it too much myself, but it will be checked by the Department of Justice.

Mr. DENT. Thank you very kindly. I believe the members will use their own judgment in the matter.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his point of order.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, last night during the late hours I offered a set of amendments to House Bill No. 936, Printer's No. 363. Immediately thereafter a request was made that the bill go over in its order. The situation is that the bill is on the Calendar on third reading and the amendments are on the table.

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 892, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act approved the twenty-sixth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 1076) entitled "An act to provide for the organization incorporation operation and supervision of cooperative savings and credit associations to be termed credit unions designating such credit unions as corporations and defining their power and duties conferring certain powers and duties on the Department of Banking and providing penalties" by further defining the membership of credit unions

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. President, this is the bill which my distinguished colleague, Judge Gourley, discussed last evening. There is nothing more I can add to the principle involved, except to say that it opens the way for greater participation by cooperatives in credit union work. I am fully aware of the fact that the Banking Department of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is not receptive to enlarging the Act of 1933, under which these credit unions operate, but I do feel it is high time that this Legislature do something to effect a change that long has been needed. I also want to suggest that today there are 675 credit unions and 545 of them are under federal charter. It was my impression that at least the majority side of this Senate was trying to get away from federal participation in any of the local activities and for that reason I think this bill, sponsored by Mr. Lee in the House, is a very good bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—20

Barr,	Farrell,	Kephart,	McGinnis,
Coleman,	Gourley,	Klein,	Rosenfeld,
Cox,	Haluska,	Leader,	Ruth,

Chapman,	James,	Taylor,	Wilson,
Crider,	Jones,	Thomas,	Tallman, Presiding Officer

Less than a Constitutional majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HITLER'S DREAM

Mr. CARR. Mr. President, fellow Senators and guests, there were a couple of events that happened within the last few weeks and I think perhaps a dream which a certain noted tailor had some time ago, in my imagination, has perhaps come true by this time, and I am going to tell you about it. This little composition of mine is entitled Schieckelgruber's Dream, and it goes like this:

SCHICKELGRUBER'S DREAM

Poor old Schickelgruber had a very nasty dream;
He was lying in his bed one night, when, strange as it may seem,
He dreamed that he had perished and was lying there in state.
And, though thousands came to view him no one seemed to mourn his fate.
And then he dreamed his soul took off and soared up through the air
Until he stood at Peter's gates, so beautiful and fair.
"Hey, Peter, diss iss Hitler, open opp und let me in,
Ve'll haff a beeg barade opp here sooch ass hass neffer been.
Choost vake opp all der anchels all der vimmens und der men,
Und shtand dem at attentions, und
I'll comm in choost den."
"Not so," cried Good Saint Peter,
"for it happens that I know
That you committed every sin that's known on Earth below.
We cannot even ask you in to have a bite of dinner
For we have records here that show you were the world's worst sinner.
And so I don't feel sorry that to you
I have to tell,
That you have no place in heaven,
so you'd better go to hell."
And so poor Adolph started down, awhistling for to show
He wasn't worried any for he had a friend below.
But, when he reached the lower realm about the close of day,
He paused outside Old Satan's gate and heard the Devil say,
"I've been expecting Hitler here
since early in the morn,
But when he comes don't let him in for sure as you were born,
He'll start to raise the devil here and then, without a doubt, He'll try to take possession here and throw us devils out."
"Mine vrend," cried poor old Adolph,
"Diss I tought you'd neffer do,
For up on Earth in all my vars
I rebresented you;
I mate de beeples soffer und I did your chob so vell,
I tought dot you vould surly haff a blace for me in Hell.

So blease to open opp der door,
I'm getting mighty cold,
I'll giff you all my medals und
I'll giff you half my gold."
"Not so," said shrewd old Satan,
"I cannot let you in,
Although on Earth most faithful to all my tasks you've been,
For if I ever let you in,
I know what you would do,
You'd take the whole place over and at reigning I'd be through;
But I'll give you half my matches, half the sulphur that I own,
You can make yourself a Hades such as I have never known,
Where you, and Mussolini, and the dirty little Japs
Can amuse yourselves forever by drawing up new maps."

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. MYHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, throughout the history of our great nation, we have prided ourselves as being great believers in democracy, champions of the rights of all people. For this cause our soldiers have fought battles all over the world. But as we near the end of this session of the Legislature, I am wondering if that democracy we so proudly boast of is not somewhat camouflaged, when the Geneal Assembly of this great Commonwealth is willing to adjourn without considering legislation like the Brown F. E. P. C. Bill.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the House, that Bill is dead and buried, but the sentiments of the people of this State are very much alive, and their voices will be continually heard in protests against the crushing of their rights as citizens.

This is very well expressed in an editorial of the Philadelphia Inquirer of April 26, 1945, for which I ask the permission of the House to read into the record of the Journal.

If the Republican leadership at Harrisburg permits the Brown fair employment practice bill to die in committee, it will be trampling upon the rights of the people of this State—and it will be committing a grievous political mistake.

The FEPC bill has one main purpose, to put an end to the vicious un-American practice of discrimination against any person by any employer or labor union because of race, creed, color, national origin or ancestry.

It is intended to make it impossible to place anyone at a disadvantage, in his struggle to earn a living, because of race or religion.

It is a good bill. It is based on sound American doctrine.

Yet we find it stalled in the House Labor Committee as the hour for adjournment of the Legislature nears—apparently condemned to death not by open opposition but by legislative apathy that can kill a bill as quickly as adverse votes.

The Brown bill has been held back by refusal of the committee majority to report it to the floor.

When its supporters took the desperate step of trying to discharge the committee from further consideration of the measure, they were unable to muster sufficient voting strength.

The bill remains penned up and unless immediate action is taken to rescue it, it will expire with the session.

That would be a calamity, and it is up to the Republican Party, which holds the responsibility of majority control of the Legislature, to act quickly and decisively.

When the discharge motion was brought up, announcement was made that the vote would not be on the merits of the bill but concerned a matter of legislative procedure only.

The traditional right of a committee majority to kill an unwanted proposal in secret without meddling interference from the other members, was being upheld, and while it was being upheld, the FEPC bill was to be given the death-blow.

Perhaps this was regarded as smart strategy by some. Actually it is just the reverse. The people are not going to be fooled by such parliamentary shenanigans. They know that the anti-discrimination law has been dealt a heavy and perhaps fatal blow, and they know who dealt it.

They are not interested in any convenient tradition that holds that the feelings of a committee chairman should never be hurt by taking a bill out of his hands.

They had been led to believe that a satisfactory anti-bias law would be passed by this Legislature. No fewer than three proposed measures have been introduced. Governor Martin has consistently shown that he wants such legislation enacted.

When a public hearing was held on the various proposals, it was demonstrated beyond question that the Brown bill was the most favored. Its reward was to be kicked back into committee.

How can anyone honestly deny that justice, the public interest and the maintenance of a true democratic form of government call for a policy which would give each person of equal ability, regardless of race, creed, color or origin, a fair chance in the struggle for life?

The FEPC bill is intended to give every Pennsylvanian that chance. As a matter of fair play, it should not be allowed to die. It must be saved from execution. There is still time.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE, Jr. Mr. Speaker, I submit the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 658.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. McNALLY. RESOLUTION No. 65.

In the House of Representatives, May 5, 1945.

There has been introduced in Congress, a bill proposing to amend the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 under which veterans were insured reemployment with their former employer.

Some employers, however, have been evading the provisions of the said act by declining to give certain veterans reemployment on the grounds that such veterans were physically unable to perform their former duties, whereas the said veterans claimed they were quite capable of so doing.

In order to eliminate evasions of this nature, the amendment above referred was introduced, providing that only actual incapacitation shall relieve the employer from employing any such veteran.

The amendment also proposes to extend the period during which veterans may apply to their former employers for employment; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania, that it hereby memorializes the 79th Congress of the United States to speedily enact into law the proposed amendments to the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of the above resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to the President Pro Tempore of the United States Senate, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative elected from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. McNALLY asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional names, Democratic Members of Allegheny County, to a resolution.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 625, as follows:

An Act to amend section ten of the act approved the third day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 242) entitled "An act to promote the public health and safety by providing for examination and registration of those who desire to engage in the occupation of beauty culture defining beauty culture and regulating beauty culture shops schools students apprentices teachers managers and operators conferring powers and duties upon the Department of Public Instruction providing for appeals to certain courts by applicants and licensees and providing penalties" by further regulating the number of apprentices in beauty shops

Section 1 Section ten of the act approved the third day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 242) entitled "An act to promote the public health and safety by providing for examination and registration of those who desire to engage in the occupation of beauty culture defining beauty culture and regulating beauty culture shops schools students apprentices teachers managers and operators conferring powers and duties upon the Department of Public Instruction providing for appeals to certain courts by applicants and licensees and providing penalties" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 10 Apprentices in Beauty Shops Any cosmetologist hairdresser or cosmetician who is a beauty shop owner and who is a holder of a teacher's certificate may instruct apprentices provided that there shall be no less than [four] two licensed operators for each apprentice in any shop and there shall be no more than two apprentices in any shop and provided such shop is not held out as a school of beauty culture Such apprentices may apply for examination at the end of their apprenticeship at the next regular examination held by the department if successful therein shall be registered as operators Registered apprentices upon completion of their required term of apprenticeship may apply for and receive from the department a temporary permit to practice as an operator until the next regular examination

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have a brief explanation of this bill. I am not just quite clear on it. I would like to have it explained briefly.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I believe this bill allows for the reduction of those in beauty shops who are apprentices. I believe this allows for a change in the number of apprentices in beauty shops. This is of some particular import in rural areas where there are small shops and where the present requirement is for a number which is in excess of that which is set in this bill. They are fixed in this measure at two, and it becomes much of a hardship in the smaller towns in the operations of these plants, because the requirement at present is for four, and by that token these shops must depend entirely upon those who may be schooled rather than those that they may train themselves. I think that briefly explains the intent and import of the measure.

Mr. MORAN. I thank the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

SENATE MESSAGES

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 658

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate insists on its concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill No. 658, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the fifth day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (1937 P. L. 2897) entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons providing procedure and administrative details for the determination payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties" changing the provisions thereof and the rights obligations and procedure thereunder.

And has appointed Messrs. Berger, Letzler and Klein a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (already appointed) on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill

HOUSE BILL No. 806.

An Act to further amend sections twenty and twenty-one of the act approved the first day of June one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine (P. L. 420) entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred seventy-nine" by clarifying the provisions for the appraisal and valuation of the capital stock of corporations subject to capital stock and franchise taxes and by changing the gross receipts fraction applicable to foreign corporations doing business in this Commonwealth.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 2, page 7, line 28, by inserting a light faced bracket before the word "owned" and after the word "rented"; also in same line by inserting after the word "rented" the word "maintained".

Amend Section 3, page 11, line 12, by inserting after the word "enactment" the following: "provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to effect modify or repeal Section 2 of the said Act of the twenty-seventh day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-three Pamphlet Laws seven hundred sixty-two."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the remarks I have to make, of course, are directed only to the amendments to House Bill 806, Printer's No. 713 inserted by the Senate.

The Members will remember that when House Bill 806 was here on final passage this side protested and voted against the bill. Our only problem now is the matter of the amendment. The amendment is a saving clause for the Act that passed in 1943 and was put into the bill to avoid any question of doubt about the effective date of House Bill 806 in the 1943 session.

In order to clarify and make certain that the Department does not get jammed up in the collection of taxes we do not object to the amendment, but I might remind the Members that the bill in 1943 was what was probably pronounced as the first post-war planning project for Pennsylvania, a saver for the corporations of Pennsylvania in the capital stock tax on corporations for manufacturing purposes.

I think the Members of the House ought to know that in passing on the taxes this year, you did not give them all the reduction this year; you gave them a reduction last year to take effect when the war is over. When you are thinking about spending money, getting rid of money in the bank today from your income, do not forget that your income is going to start dropping rapidly just as soon as the war is over.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 106, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections two hundred twenty and two hundred eighty-five of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-five (P. L. 448) entitled "An act relating to fish and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating to fish in the inland waters and the boundary lakes and boundary rivers of the Commonwealth" increasing the resident fishing license fee and limiting the use of the money derived from such increase

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the attention of the Members of the House, particularly the ones on this side, that this is a bill in which various sportsmen have expressed an interest, and if any of them have anything to say I hope they say it now.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. I would like to have someone explain this bill.

Mr. ELDER. Mr. Speaker, when this bill first came on to the Senate calendar, it carried with it a strictly purchase clause for the purchase of land containing streams, ponds and dams and things of that type. It was sent into the Committee on Fisheries in the House and referred to a subcommittee for further study. After questioning and contacting a great many of the sportsmen's organizations of the State of Pennsylvania it was decided to amend this bill and allow the increase and use it for the propogation and distribution of fish.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Fleming.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FLEMING. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, referring to Senate Bill 106, does the gentleman have any communication from the Allegheny County Sportsmen on it?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, I had several. I will have to plead guilty to neglect or something. That's why I am rushing around here. I was trying to find out if the bill was amended to suit the Allegheny County Sportsmen's League. I agree with the gentleman from Allegheny that they were opposed to it if certain amendments were not inserted. I was just on my road over to see him and find out from him or from Mr. Shaffer or someone whether those amendments had been inserted. I wonder, Mr. Speaker, if it might be possible just for a moment to pass over the bill.

The SPEAKER. If there be no objection the bill will be passed over. Is there objection?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I have no objections. I consulted with the gentleman from Lycoming when the bill was being amended. I wanted it called up, so that if there would be any necessity for a conference, or anything to be ironed out, it would not be one of the last bills considered. That was my reason for calling it up at this time. It is just a matter of saving time and getting action on it at this time.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. I have a letter here from the Allegheny County sportsmen that tells us this bill has been reported out of Committee with an amendment and it is not satisfactory to the sportsmen.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I realize this is not interrogation, but I would like to inform the gentleman that I have a letter from the Federated Group of Sportsmen back in my county, and I know they see eye to eye with the gentleman from Allegheny, and that is one of the reasons I am calling the bill up at this time, because if there is disagreement about the amendment, the matter can be ironed out in conference. That is the reason I am calling it up. My county agrees with yours and it is just a matter of getting it in the position that we can iron out any differences if any exist.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, after a hurried consultation with my colleagues I would like to withdraw my request that you pass it over and would request that you proceed with it now.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, as Chairman of the Committee, I would like to explain that the Fish Commission already has the right to purchase streams, and I understand this amendment, due to the fact that the Commission already has that right. The only change that the amendment makes is not to earmark this money for the purchase of streams but to be devoted to propagation and other purposes.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, what is the objection that the sportsmen have to the legislation as it is before us? If the Majority Leader assures us that the thing will be ironed out in conference, I feel that we can go along with this bill as amended and put it in conference committee and then iron out this amendment that has been inserted in the Committee of the House. If we can have the assurance from the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter, I feel that we can go along with the bill and then have it ironed out in conference committee.

Mr. BARTON. Mr. Speaker, I think there is still a lot of confusion about this bill. This bill as it came over from the Senate had the fifty cent increase earmarked for the purchase of land, to which I think most of the sportsmen of the state are opposed. That bill was amended in the House by the earmarking of the fifty cent increase for the propogation of fish. The earmarking of that fifty cents does not mean a cent to the sportsmen of the state, because now they have a dollar fifty cents to spend any way they want to spend it, and if the fifty cent increase was earmarked for the propogation of fish then they would simply take away some other funds that they had used for the propagation of fish and use this fifty cents. I think if you go into conference on this bill it is very likely that the bill will get back to its original form, to earmark the fifty cents for the purchase of land. I am not telling anybody how to vote on this bill except I am going to vote "no."

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to prolong the debate, but the gentleman from Westmoreland has raised the question, and just to clarify my friend Bob Barton here, if there is disagreement and a conference committee would decide to report the bill back again as it came from the Senate we would still have to vote on the conference report, and this vote here would not register our approval or disapproval of the report of the conference committee. I just want to clear that up. As for the gentleman from Westmoreland, of course, I cannot guarantee what the conference will do, but in order to bring the matter to some conclusion, since there are two schools of thought, I think the only way we can do that is to clear the bill from the calendar and go into conference.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, these amendments were put in in the House, is that not right?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. What shall we do, Mr. Speaker, if the Senate agrees with our amendments?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Then again we have the conference report. It would be a matter for the House to decide—pardon me, if the Senate will agree with the House amendment, I say that we are then behind the eight ball.

Mr. HEATHERINGTON. Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry but I would like to have you pass over this bill until both sides get together and agree what to do.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 106, Printer's No. 479

Bentley,	Hoggard,	Regan,	Skale,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the report of the Committee of Conference was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 60

Mr. ROYER. Mr. Speaker I call up House Resolution No. 60, Printer's No. 775, on page 29 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 25, 1945.

In a glass case in a room in the Museum Building there are now displayed the regimental flags of several Confederate Regiments

They represent the valor of the Pennsylvania organizations which were responsible for their capture but the years have paled the flags and although the valor and bravery of those who captuured them has not dimmed the reason for the retention of those flags as evidence of that valor and bravery is no more

The Nation exists today united and undivided and the flags that now are displayed in our Museum are as much a part of the records and archives of the States whose men at arms carried them into battle as they are of Pennsylvania whose soldiers carried them out of battle It is therefore fitting that they should now be returned to the States from which they came therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concurs) by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby requested and authorized to have the flags of the several Confederate Regiments that are now on display in the Museum Building removed therefrom and that after the said flags have been repaired and made safe for transport that His Excellency the Governor shall at a time and place and in such manner as he deems proper return the said flags into the custody of the States whose regiments carried them in order that they may there be preserved as mementos of those regiments

Resolved That a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted to His Excellency The Governor by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I understand yesterday House Resolution No. 60 was amended.

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. LEVY. Is the amended resolution now on the desks, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed it is.

Mr. WELSH. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I regretfully rise at this time to call your attention to the sentiment and to the service involved in this resolution. I think there has hardly been a time when I have passed up the stairs to the elevator coming to this House but that I have looked at these flags in the cases just under the stone stairway leading up to the dome, with the dome looking down and shedding its light upon those flags.

I recognize that the gentleman who has fathered this resolution has an idealistic thought in mind, and yet we are giving these flags away, we are returning them from whence they came. We cannot do that; they belong to Pennsylvanians who gave their lives, Pennsylvanians who gave their blood and have long since died. We can do no good by returning them to their original owners any more than we could do any good by returning the flags which our boys have recently captured in Europe or captured in Japan. I do not say this with any ill feeling toward the sponsor, but I call your attention to the fact that these war flags, captured in the Civil War, are not our property, we are only holding them for those who fought and died and those who triumphantly brought them home, not with a spirit of hatred but simply with a feeling that they had accomplished the mission they started out to do, and as a result of that work they brought back the flags which they asked us to save in this Commonwealth for our children, for all children to look upon as symbols of the bravery and sacrifice of Union soldiers.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, Resolution 60, Printer's No. 775 was amended yesterday. I am asking whether or not when the resolution is sent to those for whom it is intended, could it be printed without the brackets and with the matter that has been deleted taken out?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, when the final copy is printed the parts in brackets will be striken out and will not be included.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Section 4 The provisions of this act with the exception of Section 3 shall become effective immediately upon final enactment and Section 3 hereof shall become effective on the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and forty-six

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make the request that we debate Senate Bill No. 675 and Senate Bill 197, on page ten at the same time, that is, cover both these bills at the same time.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to debating both these bills at the same time?

Mr. COHEN. No, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. There being no objection Senate Bill 197 and Senate Bill 675 will be debated at the same time as they are companion bills.

Mr. COHEN. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell me how much money the Commonwealth appropriates to the General State Authority each biennium?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. In the neighborhood, I believe, of a little more than eight million dollars per biennium, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman tell me whether any of that eight million dollars is used for the payment of interest on outstanding bonds?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman tell me how much of that money is used for the payment of interest on bonds?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. About three and three-quarter million dollars, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. That three and three-quarter million, I believe, includes interest and sinking fund requirements, is that correct?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. It would leave then approximately five million dollars for other expenses of the Authority?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. No, Mr. Speaker, there is a payment of principal of four million two hundred fifty thousand dollars.

Mr. COHEN. Then can the gentleman tell me just what the General Authority expenses are for each biennium?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. The administrative expenses?

Mr. COHEN. That is right, office help and so forth.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I do not have the figure available at the moment, but I know it is not a great deal, because there were only ten salaried employes during the past biennium in the General State Authority.

Mr. COHEN. The buildings for which the Commonwealth pays the General Authority rentals, are any of the people in those buildings on the General State Authority payroll, or are they government employes?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. They are State government employes, not Authority employes.

Mr. COHEN. And if the State government took over the buildings or the payroll for the maintenance of the buildings, would that be taken over by the State at the same cost; there would be no additional cost?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. There would be no additional expense, that is right.

Mr. COHEN. So we could safely say that the entire approximately eight million dollars for each biennium is money which is spent for interest on bonds, sinking fund requirements and principal payments on outstanding bonds?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct.

Mr. COHEN. And at the rate we are going does the gentleman know how many years it will be before these bonds are completely paid off?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I believe it will be a matter of twelve or fifteen years.

Mr. COHEN. I wish to thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, the general State Authority which was organized and given its life back in 1935 or 1937 was created for the express purpose of avoiding, I should say, the Constitutional limitation on the State's borrowing power. It, however, helped the Commonwealth to get great benefit in permitting the buildings to be used by various Commonwealth departments. A great number of bonds were issued, with interest, I believe, at the rate of approximately four per cent.

May I point out, Mr. Speaker, that these bonds are held to the extent of about forty million dollars by the State Employes Retirement Fund and about eight million dollars, or the balance of the issue, by the School Employes' Retirement Fund. The Commonwealth would not lose any money, nor would it save any money if its bonds were paid off today, and the reasoning of course is very simple. All the money which the Commonwealth provides within fifty thousand dollars per annum goes for the expenses and the interest, the sinking fund and the payment of principal on these bonds. What these bills propose to do is to pay the thing in one lump sum so it will be wiped out.

Well, that would be all right if we could not get more for our money elsewhere, because the State cannot go into the lending business, and this way we may save some interest, but may I suggest, Mr. Speaker, that we are going to waste about one million dollars per biennium by this procedure, and this is why; if the two funds referred to were to receive payment in full for the bonds which they hold they would be required to reinvest that money in other good sound securities. As a matter of fact the actuary of one of these funds said that their only hope for return on reinvestment would be about one and one-half per cent, and of course since the Commonwealth guarantees that these funds shall receive four per cent, if we were only to get one and a half per cent in new investments such as government bonds, the obligation of the State government would be to replace that two and a half per cent shortage out of current revenues, or roughly one million dollars. So if we pay off the bonds, be ready to appropriate an additional one million dollars per biennium in order to make up to these funds the amount of return guaranteed. Now, if we are going into high finance, let us do it the right way; let us not penalize the employes' funds of Pennsylvania, but do as Philadelphia did recently. It had a lot of four and a half and five per cent bonds, the same as our highway bonds in Pennsylvania—and incidentally the highway bonds of Pennsylvania have almost the same amount of outstanding bonds as the General State Authority, those bonds pay anywhere from four and a half to five percent, and perhaps the banks holding those bonds would refuse to reconvert. We had the same problem in Philadelphia but Philadelphia was able to refinance itself on a lower basis and save itself quite a considerable amount of money.

Why not pay off the road bonds. Since we are so wealthy, and can so easily afford the money, we could perhaps save a lot more money by not paying off the State Authority bonds, and penalize the two state agencies to which we guarantee a certain return, and save a million dollars.

There is one other aspect of it, whether the gentlemen on the other side like it or not; may I refer to it again, the Post-War Planning Commission. We found it on the calendar today, as I pointed out a little earlier. The little book on the third page makes reference to the Post-War Planning Commission—and I hear it is going to have a meeting on May 23rd in Harrisburg, so perhaps there is a Post-War Planning Commission after all. There is a bill that says "Post-War Planning Commission" in the title, appropriating many millions of dollars, and we did pass a bill giving seventy-five thousand dollars to the Post-War Planning Commission to make an economic survey of the port of Pittsburgh. This mythical Post-War Planning Commission is getting more money than the Legislature is getting to spend on its functions and its duties, and they get a lot more than the school teachers in proportion.

I will refer again to the message to the General Assembly by Major General Edward Martin dated January 2, 1945. Turn to page ten where the Governor outlines post-war planning projects, and we have given millions of dollars away as recommended by the Governor. As a matter of fact, we are giving more than you think we are because the Senate has sent over some additional bills calling for more money, so I think perhaps the Post-War Planning Commission is not a mythical thing, it is not a ghost, it is a real thing, and the Governor says "Post-war projects, one hundred sixty-five million dollars" and then in the very same line he says "Estimate General State Authority Fund on May 31, 1945 with accrued interest at forty-eight million eight hundred seventy thousand dollars." That is the Governor's post-war program. If it is not the Post-War Planning Commission's program, more credit to them, then it must be the Governor's program. Then I should like to know if we read the act creating the Post-War Planning Commission, where in the Post-War Planning Commission's authority or where in the Governor's mind has he come to the point where we are to set up projects over a short or long period to insure post-war employment in Pennsylvania? Do we get wages and salaries out of forty-eight million eight hundred seventy thousand dollars which is going to be used to pay off some bonds with a penalty of one million dollars to the two funds? To me a post-war project is putting money aside for the purpose of building needed things, county hospitals and things of that nature. We are perfectly willing to spend on decent projects but we are not willing to spend forty-eight million dollars, not for post-war work but for merely for the payment of bonds because somebody away back did not like the General State Authority, felt that it ought to be wiped off the books just as soon as it could be, thereby taking away the use of forty-eight million dollars for post-war projects within ten years from now.

Do not forget that your Post-War Planning Commission has told us, or at least told me, as far as the money is concerned that is the business of the Legislature. Now, the Post-War Planning Commission was also supposed to make a study of taxes in Pennsylvania. We have not heard a thing about it yet. I know they tried to scare a lot of people by saying they would recommend a wage tax and sales tax, but they have not had the nerve to do so. They have not even given us a schedule over the years, but we will have to come back here two or four years from now when our tidy kitty in the bank runs out, and then perhaps start looking for money to finish the projects which have been started but cannot be finished because we in the Legislature may not have nerve enough to tax the people. You know politicians do not like to impose taxes, it is unpopular back home. Four to six years from now we will have to impose taxes for projects which cannot be finished. Post-war planning is putting money aside to pay wages for those who must have employment after this war is over, and to spend forty-eight million dollars for something which does not translate itself into wages but which gives us one million dollars additional expense to me is foolish, foolhardy and bad financing.

Do not tell me it is good business to pay off your debt. It is bad business to pay off your debts if you cannot pay off your obligations in the future, which you are committed to do and which you dare not take away. You dare not go to your State Employment Retirement Fund and your School Fund and say "We will take away your four percent guarantee." You dare not do that, because you faithfully promised that you would guarantee that four percent return to their funds, and you will have to look for an investment to pay that. It is not good business to pay off a debt if you run into another debt, and ignore by digging your head into the sand and just hope that something might not happen in the future that would make it necessary. If we do not need the project after the war—and our economic setup might be such that we do not, then we can go into a small tax reducation program, we can give the money to school teachers that they deserve and not hide the money away where no one can view it. The reason they want to do away with the Authority is that the Governor said he did not want to saddle any future administration with the expense. If we put aside this money and give to the school teachers what we promised in House Bill 568, we will not have to saddle the administration with this increase. Why don't you dot it the smart way and keep what you have got? Instead of spending this money to retire the State Authority Bonds, why not hold it in case you have to have your money for honest-to-God post-war employment?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I will try to confine my remarks to the provisions for disposing of the General State Authority.

The General State Authority was created during the Earle administration, and in line with other states, was created to promote a huge building program. The first program called for expenditures of sixteen million dollars. The second program was inaugurated involving a little more than twelve million dollars, used mainly for equipment and supplies. It is nothing more than a holding company, and I will agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia that the bonds of the General State Authority have been held by the School and Employees Retirement Funds. Under the present law in Pennsylvania we are required to see that those investments yield four percent, and if not, by proper appropriation meet any difference. Now, I believe that is the plan for the abolishment of the General State Authority—and if this is poor business I would like to know it—if the Authority is liquidated and the retirement funds would not receive the four percent interest as required by law in the 1945 and 1947 biennium amounting to three million seven hundred thousand dollars, then, of course, we would have to make up the difference. Might I say that at this time we are in the Seventh War Loan Drive, and might I point out to the gentleman from Philadelphia, that I believe the Federal Government is most anxious that all of us make our due contribution to this war loan. Certainly bonds could be purchased, I believe, which would yield two and a half per cent to the School Retirement Fund and would earn for that fund three million three hundred ninety-five dollars leaving a difference for the State to make up in interest shortage to the Retirement Fund of one million three hundred twelve thousand one hundred sixty dollars. In other words the State by the abolishment of the General State Authority and the payment of these bonds will gain during the present biennium a difference between these two figures of two million, six hundred two thousand two hundred eighty-eight dollars. This is at a rate of 2.72 per cent per annum on the forty-seven million nine hundred twelve thousand dollars of bonds, and is a greater return than if the State were to invest in seven-eights of one per cent or one and a quarter per cent short term Federal obligations for the two and a half per cent long term bonds. By retiring the General State Authority bonds, although the deficiency to the Retirement System would have to be made up under present laws, the State is investing its money at 2.72 per cent. I say that this is the best deal that the State could possibly make at this time, and instead of paying out a rental of eight million dollars a year, we would be obligated only to the amount of two million six hundred two thousand dollars during the present biennium or a saving of a little better than five million dollars to the Commonwealth. I think that is sound and good business, and there is no reason why we should not pay off these bonds at this time.

I disagree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, if you have a surplus in your business and if you have outstanding debts and you have made money, it is always good practice to take at least a certain per centage of that profit, and pay off your debts? I therefore feel that the abolishment of the General State Authority, because of the vast appropriations we have made for post-war activity because of the soundness of the program and because of the saving to the people of Pennsylvania by relieving them of at least five million dollars that we are now paying in rentals to the General State Authority, and the difference to be made up to meet the requirements of the present law, is sound, and we should vote for these measures.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, on Senate Bill 197, since we debated both bills and since one bill is no good without the other, I request the same roll call to be taken on this bill as the other.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Philadelphia.

SENATE MESSAGES

The Clerk of the Senate, Mr. Steinfelt, being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid on the table.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, at four o'clock this afternoon, one hour ago I asked the Speaker to recognize me, and he had a bill on the table. It came from the Senate, and he asked me would I kindly yield for a moment. I yielded in all deference to the Speaker, and as yet I have not been called on to go ahead with my statement before the House.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, at four o'clock the Speaker announced "We will take up today's calendar."

The SPEAKER. We resumed today's calendar.

Mr. LEVY. That is right, Mr. Speaker, and I rose and addressed the Speaker, and he asked me to yield. It was my purpose to call up a bill on second reading.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman would have been out of order. We were then proceeding with bills on final passage and third reading, trying to clear the calendar as much as we possibly could. We are under that order of business now.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I am in accord with the Speaker. However, when the Speaker at four o'clock stated that the calendar would be taken up, it was not announced that bills would be taken up on final passage. The statement made by the Speaker was that the calendar would be taken up. I asked to be recognized and the Speaker requested me to yield. I yielded, supposedly for a moment, in accordance with the Speaker's request.

The SPEAKER. We continued with the order of business, which was bills on third reading, previous to the recess. If the gentleman wishes to interrupt that order of business it must be by unanimous consent. If the House gives its unanimous consent it may be done.

Mr. LEVY. It is not my intention to turn the very harmonious closing few hours of the session into wrangling hours of debate, but I merely ask in all sense of decency, and I know the Speaker has always been of that mind, because of the serious nature of the bill on second reading I was hoping that it might be taken up before the evening hour draws near when many of the members will leave the Hall to go to dinner or some other form of recreation. So, Mr. Speaker, in all deference to my request I ask that I be permitted to call up a bill on second reading on the first page of the calendar.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to calling up a bill on the second reading calendar? Is there objection?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, was it not by unanimous consent that we passed over and did not act upon bills on second reading? Could the bills have been passed over and not called in their order, had it not been that at that time it was with unanimous consent?

The SPEAKER. The Chair, as the gentleman will recall, when we started on the calendar this morning, we took up second reading bills by unanimous consent, and the second bill on the calendar was read.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, was there special order of the day that fixed the order of business as third reading bills to the exclusion of second reading bills?

The SPEAKER. We were proceeding under Rule 14, and were on third reading bills. Second reading bills were the order of business this morning.

Mr. ANDREWS. And we passed second reading bills by unanimous consent and did not call them up.

The SPEAKER. That is correct. That is the Chair's understanding.

Mr. ANDREWS. Would that not imply, Mr. Speaker, since second reading bills were passed by unanimous consent, the power of the House to return to that order of business without a suspension of the rule or special order of the day?

The SPEAKER. That order of business can be reinstated by unanimous consent. The Chair will place the request for unanimous consent before the House if the gentleman desires.

MOTION TO MAKE SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I move that Senate Bill 716, Printer's No. 478 be made a special order of business at 5:15 p. m. Saturday, May 5, 1945.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. TURNER. The Chair having said that we are on the third reading calendar, as I understand it, you are now accepting a motion to take up a bill on the second reading calendar and to make it a special order of business. I think the motion is out of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order is not well taken. The Chair would inform the gentleman from Delaware that the House has the power to make a special order of business at any time it desires.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the motion be voted down.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Andrews and Mr. Levy and were as follows:

Section 6 Within six (6) months after the operation is finished or abandoned the operator shall file with the Department of Mines a Completion Report on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the Secretary identifying the operation stating the area of land affected by open pit mining stating whether the operator intends to carry on drift mining upon the premises and what provision has been made therefor The operator shall attach to the Completion Report a map of the operation certified to a registered professional engineer showing the boundary lines of the tract or tracts the access to the operation from the nearest public highway the area of land affected by open pit mining the locations preserved for drift mining and the proposed plans in connection therewith

Section 7 If the operation is not completed or abandoned within one year following the date of filing the certificate the operator shall within sixty (60) days after the end of said year file with the Department of Mines an annual report on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the Secretary identifying the operation an stating the area of land affected by open pit mining during the year

Section 8 Upon receipt of said completion report or annual report the Secretary of Mines shall charge the area affected by open pit mining against the bond or deposit filed by the operator at the time of registration at the rate of two hundred dollars ($200.00) per acre Should the area actually affected by open pit mining within the year exceed the estimate made at the time of registration the operator shall within thirty (30) days thereafter file an amended certificate and additional bond If the area actually affected by open pit mining during the year is less than the estimate the Secretary shall issue a release of the surplus of the bond or deposit upon which liability has not been charged as aforesaid

Section 9 If the operator continues to engage in open pit mining of bituminous coal beyond the period for which the certificate has been filed a renewal of the certificate shall be filed with the Department of Mines together with a bond or deposit in accordance therewith as hereinbefore provided in the case of the original certificate

Section 10 Within one year after the operation is completed the operator shall place sufficient overburden in the open cut to cover the exposed face of the unmined coal which shall begin at least three feet above the top of the coal and shall extend to the bottom of the pit at an angle not to exceed 45 degrees except high walls where strip mining cuts into active worked out or abandoned deep mine workings in which case the angle shall not exceed forty-five (45) degrees from the top of such wall to the bottom thereof and the peaks and ridges of spoilbanks shall be leveled and rounded off to such an extent as will permit the planting of trees grasses or shrubs and rejected coal and combustive material shall not be used on the high wall bank Provided however That if the operator desires to conduct drift mining upon the premises he may designate drift locations at which places it will not be necessary to so place overburden over the face of the coal Such drift locations shall be described in the completion report and designated on the map attached thereto Provided also That if the operator desires to use the open cut as a haulageway for the removal of coal from other operations he may with the consent of the Secretary of Mines postpone the covering of the exposed face of the unmined coal for the duration of such use

Section 11 Within one year after the open pit mining operations on the premises are terminated the operator shall plant trees shrubs or grasses upon the lands affected by open pit mining when deemed necessary the secretary may extend the period for planting trees shrubs or grasses beyond the limitations of the period of time provided in this act and if the Secretary of Forests and Waters shall find as a fact that such planting is reasonable practicable and likely to succeed Such planting shall be done in accordance with a plan or procedure prescribed by the Secretary of Forests and Waters The trees shrubs or grasses shall become the property of the land owner unless the operator and the land owner agree otherwise The operator may secure the seeds plants or seedlings from any source approved by the Secretary of Forests and Waters

Section 12 When the planting is completed the operator shall file a planting report with the Secretary of Forests and Waters on a form to be prescribed and furnished by the Secretary giving the following information (a) identification of the operation (b) the type of planting (c) the date of planting and (d) the area of land planted The Secretary of Forests and Waters shall inspect the premises either in person or by his duly authorized representative within one (1) year after the planting report is filed. If the Secretary finds that the planting has been done in a workmanlike manner and that the area reported has been planted in accordance with the prescribed plan or procedure the Secretary shall certify such performance to the Department of Mines and the Secretary of Mines shall issue a release of the bond or of cash or securities deposited in proportion to the area planted Upon the presentation of such release the State Treasurer shall immediately return to the operator the amount of cash or securities specified in its release

Section 13 The operator may for reasonable cause with the consent and approval of the Secretary of Forests and Waters plant a similar area of land previously affected by open pit mining by himself or any other operator in lieu of planting the particular land covered by the bond and thereby be released from liability under the bond or deposit accordingly

Section 14 If upon inspection the Secretary of Forests and Waters does not approve the planting he shall notify the operator in writing setting forth the objections and reasons therefor The operator may then take such steps as are required to remove the objections

Any operator or landowner, notwithstanding the operator may have registered as required by section four of this act, who shall be aggrieved by any requirement of this act, or any administrative regulation, directive or order making application of the provisions of this act, shall have the right to file a petition in the court of common pleas of the county where the land is located alleging therein the action complained of and praying for remedy thereof, and the said court shall proceed therein by rule or rules upon the proper administrative officer, body or authority to show cause why the petitioner should not have the remedy prayed for by his, her or its petition. The court in such proceedings shall make such proceedural orders as may be necessary for facilitating and expediting hearings and disposition of the matters complained of. From the decision of the said court of common pleas an appeal may be taken by either party to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania as in other causes. Every such petition shall specify the petitioner's objection to the action of the administrative officer, body or authority and such officer, body or authority on or before the return day of the rule shall make answer thereto and certify to the said court of common pleas the record of the proceedings to which the petition refers. Such record shall include the testimony taken therein, the findings of fact, if any, of the officer, body or authority based upon such testimony, and a copy of all decisions and orders made by the said officer in the proceedings. Section 16 Any operator who proceeds to mine bituminous coal by the open pit mining method without having registered as herein provided shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) The fine shall be payable to the county in which the violation occurs

Section 17 The provisions of this act shall not apply to any person partnership or corporation who does not mine in excess of two hundred and fifty (250) tons of coal in any period of twelve successive calendar months son who is in business when the act shall become effective shall have ninety (90) to file his plans specifications and bond

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that several weeks ago, say about five weeks ago, the Governor and the Committee on Mines and Mining made a trip to the strip mining fields of western Pennsylvania to ascertain what would be proper legislation to correct the conditions resulting from coal stripping operations?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct, sir.

Mr. PETROSKY. Is it not true, Mr. Speaker, I believe three weeks after that official trip that again the Committee on Mines and Mining and the Governor were asked to make a tour of certain other strip operations by the Mineral Producers Association?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. To the best of my knowledge that trip was made. I only recall that the Governor and the Committee at the moment made that trip to view some of the more outstanding strip mine operations.

Mr. PETROSKY. Further, is it not true that upon the first trip that was made to the fields the Governor made certain recommendations to the Legislature on what kind of strip mining legislation should be passed?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I do not know just what recommendations the Governor made.

Mr. PETROSKY. A week after the trip was made by the Committee on Mines and Mining—I don't know whether the Governor was along or not, the trip was sponsored by the Mineral Producers Association—was it not true, Mr. Speaker, that the Governor recommended to the Legislature legislation that was to be acted upon and considered by the Committee which does not appear in Senate Bill 183 at the present time?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I do not recall any such action. I believe that the amendments that were presented to the Committee were prepared by the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, who is greatly interested in this problem of strip mining which is part of the Governor's conservation program. I know of no other recommendations that were made or suggested to the Committee except those which appear at this time in the bill.

Mr. PETROSKY. I thank the gentleman.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Indiana permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEWITT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt, as to whether there were not certain amendments prepared by the Governor's office several weeks ago and printed in great quantity—I believe one hundred or more copies of it were printed and presented to different Members of the House for certain amendments to be embodied in Senate Bill 183.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, I was waiting until I was recognized by the Chair to see if I was being interrogated. I did not hear the first part of the gentleman's question.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that certain amendments were printed in great quantity by the Governor's office and presented to the legislative body for consideration?

Mr. HEWITT. That is after the second trip that the gentleman is speaking of?

Mr. PETROSKY. That is correct.

Mr. HEWITT. There were certain amendments presented to my Committee on Mines and Mining.

Mr. PETROSKY. Were those amendments the Governor's recommendations to be inserted into Senate Bill 183?

Mr. HEWITT. They were not alone the Governor's recommendations, they were the recommendations of a number of interested parties.

Mr. PETROSKY. I would like to further inquire from the gentleman as to who the other interested parties were beside the Governor.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MAHANY. The interrogation is not on the bill. I do not think this interrogation is in order.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. Will the Members please confine themselves to the bill?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I feel I am confining myself to the bill, inasmuch as the debate on the subject before us and what transpired in bringing this measure before the House, is relevant to the best interests of the public and the parties. But those are all the questions I have of the gentleman from Indiana.

Senate Bill 183 appears before this body for its consideration as part of the program that was presented to the Legislature and to the people of Pennsylvania by the Governor of the Commonwealth. The first recommendations of the Governor on strip mining legislation were very worthy and would have accomplished the things that Senate Bill 183 purports to do, but which it cannot do on account of the laxity in the provisions contained in this measure. The proper disposition of the problem that we are confronted with in the strip mining areas, the spoil banks and the outgrowth of the mining of agricultural land in western Pennsylvania could very well be taken care of under the provisions that were contained in the first amendments that were recommended by the Governor. I do not know why, if the Governor was sincere in the program that he had on strip mining legislation, those amendments were withdrawn. I can say, Mr. Speaker, that the amendments which provided for five hundred dollars per acre for the first ten acres and two hundred fifty dollars an acre thereafter would have been a good piece of strip mining legislation for the Commonwealth.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MAHANY. The gentleman is not discussing the bill before the House, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is taking wide latitude. Will the gentleman please confine himself specifically to the question before the House?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, the provisions in Senate Bill 183 at the present time I feel are inadequate. There is no doubt in my mind that the way the bill is drawn the two hundred dollars per acre that is going to be deposited by the operator will more than cover the work that is recommended to be done under the provisions of this act, but the amount of work that is required to be done under the act is the better part of the program we are passing. The provisions contained within this act will do nothing more than try to rehabilitate the land that has been stripped, and I understand that that can be done at approximately forty-five dollars an acre. The original thought under the Governor's program to the public of Pennsylvania was that the spoil banks be leveled off as nearly as possible, and that certainly would require more than what is asked for by Senate Bill 183. I feel that the majority party has been very insincere in its program. I think that the people of western Pennsylvania, and especially those of Westmoreland County, should know that Senate Bill 183 is truly a farce and that certainly nothing worth while can be done with the inadequate legislation that we are passing here today.

Mr. LANE. Mr. Speaker, the Members from western Pennsylvania are heartily in accord with the effort put forth in this bill. However, we have found one section which is rather vague and I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Hewitt.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Indiana permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEWITT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LANE. I would like to call the gentleman's attention to Section 13 on page 9. I will call to his attention the wording:

> The operator may for reasonable cause with the consent and approval of the Secretary of Forests and Waters plant a similar area of land previously affected by open pit mining by himself or any other operator in lieu of planting the particular land covered by the bond and thereby be released from liability under the bond or desposit accordingly.

Will the gentleman please explain that section?

Mr. HEWITT. You will understand, Mr. Speaker, that there are a great many spoil banks that were produced a number of years ago. This section was very carefully figured out and has been considered for a period of two years by the Mines and Mining Committee of which I am a member. We have many spoil piles that were left there by operators who ceased operations six or eight years ago. These spoil piles have been left there by someone who is no longer responsible for that condition, and this idea was taken from the law of one of the other states. If there are spoil piles along our main highways and they become an eye sore to our people, and there is say a ten acre farm lying back over the hill some place, on a cheap piece of land worth only ten dollars an acre before the coal was taken out, out of sight of the highway, it is left to the discretion of the Department of Forests and Waters to plant this other ten acres in lieu of the ten to be stripped. That is what this section provides for, and it is considered a very good feature of the bill.

Mr. LANE. Mr. Speaker, could the gentleman from Indiana tell me if it would be possible under this bill for an operator of a stripping operation in Washington County to replant a similar area in Fayette County?

Mr. HEWITT. Under this section, Mr. Speaker, that would be left entirely to the Secretary of Forests and Waters.

Mr. LANE. I note, Mr. Speaker, in the first line of section thirteen that the operators may "for reasonable cause,"—could the gentleman tell me under the provisions of this act what would constitute reasonable cause?

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, that would be up to the Secretary of Forests and Waters to decide.

Mr. LANE. It would be entirely within his jurisdiction?

Mr. HEWITT. That is correct.

Mr. LANE. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PETROSKY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAHANY. Mr. Speaker, may I ask whether or not the gentleman would recommend that we vote "no" on Senate Bill 183?

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I would recommend that you vote "no" on Senate Bill 183 because it will not do the job that they claim it will do, because of the laxity in the writing of the bill.

Mr. HEWITT. Mr. Speaker, I realize that the hour is getting late and that we will adjourn soon, so I do not wish to prolong this controversy unduly, but I want to say this, that this bill has received two years of study. When we took the first trip to Pittsburgh we were looking at high coal veins where the conditions were entirely different from the second trip. The second trip was for the purpose of seeing how reforestation was working out, and the provisions of Senate Bill 183 are the result of those two investigations, with the approval of the Governor, inasmuch as he did not want to back-fill at this time on account of the excessive cost. We found it would put a great many operators out of business and would interfere very seriously with strip mining at a time when it has been such a life saver in the war effort, and which we expect will continue. Therefore the bill was drawn up to take a step in the right direction and at the same time not lose sight of the war effort.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, because I intend to vote against this bill I am asking my colleagues on this side of the House to take no note of my vote, but I want to explain why I am voting no.

I have been privileged to watch the progress of strip mining legislation in this session of the General Assembly from its inception. I have been privileged to discuss the matter with various persons in responsible positions who are greatly concerned about the strip mining situation.

When the gentleman from Indiana says that this bill is the result of two years' study I am sure that upon taking thought he will want to correct that statement, because this bill is the result of considerations and arguments and persuasions and shiftings in points of view that have arisen during the past month. There was an original intention to write a strip mining bill from the standpoint of the Commonwealth, to write a strip mining bill from the standpoint of those who believe that the earth was a heritage that belonged, not simply to this generation, but a heritage that was held in trust for the next generation. Strip mining legislation was conceived by those who had it in mind to write such a bill and to press for its passage. Now, it came about that a strip mining bill, written by the miners for the miners was introduced in the Senate, and there was every probability that the bill would be passed by that body. For a time the matter was seriously discussed of drafting another bill for introduction in the House, a bill that would fulfill the objectives of those who had in mind to control strip mining. In some way that plan went astray. I say that plan went astray. Strip mining legislation originally contemplated a modest bond which would have entailed something in the line of restoring the strip mined territory to its original condition. Not such a bond as would have made it possible to restore the land to its original condition but continuing such stipulations as would probably have entailed a substantial expenditure for the restoration of the land upon the part of the strip miner. Then someone conceived the bright idea of raising the bond but lowering the requirements of the work to be done under the bond, and where three months ago there was an apparent agreement that at least one hundred dollars an acre would be spent, we now reach the point where we are asked to pass a bill where the expenditure entailed outside of a little covering work is confined to the planting of grasses, trees and shrubs, part of which work can be done for three dollars an acre, part of which can be done for seven dollars an acre and part of which can be done for ten dollars an acre.

It has been the plea that the strip miners are all strip mining for patriotic purposes and are essential for the purposes of the war, and therefore, their devastation must be increased accordingly, and the reason I am voting against this bill is because it is the most tragic idea that either I or you have seen in many a day—so inadequate and so devious in the way it reaches its final conclusion. Under the plea of patriotism these men who have made these stupendous profits with little investment in a short period of time have managed to reduce the liability that some months ago would have been placed at a maximum of a hundred dollars an acre they now emerged, because they are so patriotic, with obligations that may not place upon them more than ten dollars an acre.

Mr. ELISH. Mr. Speaker, I will be very brief. I am voting for the bill because there is no other bill, and because we have a problem in the western part of Pennsylvania that needs solution. This bill is loosely drawn, it is full of loopholes, it will not do the job that it is intended to do. We all know that. If any of you men would go to western Pennsylvania and talk to the strip operators or the mining people there they would tell you the facts and what is necessary to be done to put the land back as nature had it in the first place. I am warning you gentlemen here that this legislation will haunt you in years to come because it is inadequate. However, since there is no other bill, there is no other measure to help us out, I cannot do otherwise than to vote for this legislation.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I just want to inform the Members before I start that it matters not how long they rattle inkwells or talk—that doesn't make any difference. I live away out near Pittsburgh and I possibly am not going to get home anyway so I might as well be here as anywhere else.

We people out in our district are very much interested in the legislation that is now before the House, and it is not our fault that it is now before this House. We realize that we have been in session since January and that there has been no legislation of this type before this House until now. I intend to take my time and fight for legislation in the interests of the people in my district.

The Governor himself has stated that he wants to preserve our farm lands, and you gentlemen know that this is not preserving any farm land in Pennsylvania. You gentlemen from out in the western end of the state are well aware of that fact. I realize that they claim that the cost is too great. I realize that the men who profit from these projects bathe in the sun in Florida on the profits they made out of these strip mines, while we look at the hills and mountains of dirt that they left after them.

This bill goes so far that it is going to plant some trees on some of those mountains of dirt that we have had out there for many years. I have a vision of some of them. You talk about alibis; they will be funny looking spectacles in some places. I am not surprised that we got this bill at this time. As a Member who has served for many sessions, we usually get these bills at this time.

As the gentleman from Washington said, you can vote for it or get nothing, that is true. I say you can vote for it and not get anything anyhow, and that is the reason I am going to vote against it, because I am not going to get anything if I do vote for it. Those who drafted this bill realize that we are not getting anything.

The bill pertaining to the purification of the streams forgot western Pennsylvania; this bill forgets western Pennsylvania too, and the gentleman last night tried to amend it to apply to the hard coal region unsuccessfully. I do not know what he wanted it for; it would be no good to him, not this bill. The reason why? If we could find some way of making some more profit out of this shale and stone and muck that they pile around us in western Pennsylvania by putting it back into the holes, there would be a grand scramble by these operators to make more profits to go to Florida and bathe in the sunshine.

I realize that it matters not how long I talk here I am still not going to accomplish much, only bear in mind that you Members some day not far off will regret the passage of this kind of legislation. To my mind you might as well tell the people of western Pennsylvania "We are not going to do anything for you." I will vote against the bill.

Mr. BONEY. Mr. Speaker, just to clarify the record or keep the record clear, I would like to say if our amendments were accepted I feel that we would have made a bill out of this bill.

While I am standing here I would also like to add my protest. What I cannot understand is why a certain part of the State was picked out to alleviate a condition that was general. In my opinion this is nothing but rank and pure discrimination.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CHUDOFF. Mr. Speaker, Senate Bill 502 is a bill affecting registration in Philadelphia. I do not want to take up too much of the time of the House, as I feel that this bill was debated on second reading. However, I just want to call to the attention of both sides of the House that this is another bill that would take——

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield for a moment? There was a request that Senate Bill 502 and House Bill 1082 be debated at the same time. Is there objection?

Mr. SMITH. I withdraw the request, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. CHUDOFF. Mr. Speaker, this bill is another bill affecting the registration of the people in Philadelphia. Each session as we come to the Legislature we find that another right of the citizens of Philadelphia to register is being taken away. During the last session of the Legislature the removal cards provision in the Permanent Registration Act was removed, and incidentally Philadelphia was the only county in the Commonwealth wherein removal cards were used. This session the administration—and this is an administration bill, so I am told, comes to the Legislature and says "Let's make it a little more difficult for the people in Philadelphia to register. Let us make the last day to register fifty days before election rather than thirty-five days."

I am afraid if this continues over a period of years it will be almost impossible for members of the great citizenry of Philadelphia to get an opportunty to register unless they take time off from business at a time most inconvenient to them, especially in these days when so many people are working in war plants. As a matter of fact, Philadelphia has more people working in war plants than perhaps any city in the United States. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that this will cause great inconvenience, and I ask that both sides of the House vote against the bill.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from Philadelphia did not give quite the right interpretation of this bill. Today in Philadelphia we have fifty days prior to a general election on the Gubernatorial and also Presidential elections. This bill applies only to the municipal election, and in the municipal election, under the new provision, we have with the soldier ballot June first which only gives us thirty-five days to complete the list, also to complete our street lists, and thirty-five days is not sufficient time.

The gentleman from Philadelphia knows that there have been five Registration Commissioners appointed, who are non-partisan and non-political. All of them have suggested that the Registration Commission be given more time to get their lists and their registrations in order.

This bill is one of a series of bills, four of which already have passed this House. It unifies the election code over the entire State of Pennsylvania. Philadelphia I feel needs the same kind of code that cities of the second class and boroughs and other municipalities need. We have in Philadelphia a much larger population in proportion to those towns. Our board is larger too, but we have a lot more people than any of these towns. Particularly the printing problem, as you know, is quite a problem, and we cannot get our printing done and our lists prepared as quickly as we used to be able to do.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Smith.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SMITH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TATE. I desire to know from the gentleman why he thinks printing has something to do with this measure?

Mr. SMITH. Well, of course, Mr. Speaker, our street lists we hope to have prepared before election. In other words it used to be prepared before our primary election, but we hope to have our street lists prepared now before the general election.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know further from the gentleman what the military ballot has to do with this measure.

Mr. SMITH. It has nothing to do with the measure, Mr. Speaker. It moves the primary election up to June rather than September when we used to have it. And that does not leave us fifty days between our primary election and our general election. That is the only reason.

Mr. TATE. I believe the gentleman stated in his remarks on the floor before that because it was necessary to prepare the military ballot list it became necessary to move up the last day for registration to fifty days before election. I would like the gentleman to clarify that.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to make that statement, and if I did, I did not mean it that way. Our primary election is brought up to June 1st for the military ballot.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know from the gentleman whether or not the Registration Commissioners in the City of Philadelphia have complained about the present situation in which the last day for registration is thirty-five days before election.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, they have complained. Of course, we are not dealing with the municipal election, but before the general election last year we had eight thousand people try to register on the last day. Now, it is a pretty hard job to get eight thousand people's cards lined up in the thirty-five day period.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Just about this time in the closing days of the Session of 1943 we of Philadelphia argued on this floor for perhaps three hours the question of deleting from the registration code in the City of Philadelphia the so-called change of address cards. On that occasion it was pointed out how inconvenient a measure of that kind would be to the public in Philadelphia in view of war-time conditions. Now under the guise of uniformity throughout the state the powers that be in the City of Philadelphia have seen fit further to jeopardize the franchise of the people of the City of Philadelphia. They have even gone further to jeopardize the boys at the front who, because of conditions that are occuring day by day, will soon return to our shores and will seek an opportunity to register before the Registration Commission. I say to you that I know the conditions of the Registration Commission of Philadelphia, and I know that the administration of their office has continued to be more efficient year by year. I know they are in good position to handle this situation on a thirty-five day basis so that they can give an efficient registration service to the people of Philadelphia. By taking fifteen days from the registration list it puts them in a position where they are disfranchising as many as thirty to thirty-five thousand people.

The gentleman in his remarks referred to the fact that on the last few days for registration in the presidential campaign of 1944 it was necessary to open the Registration Commission in the evenings, and on three successive evenings they registered eight or nine thousand people. Those of you who were close to the City of Philadelphia saw stories of packed registration rooms at that time. It certainly seems to me that the people of Philadelphia are entitled to more time to register rather than cutting down that time as this measure intends to do.

Mr. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SMITH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ROSE. Would the gentleman tell me whether he as a Member of the Legislature had occasion to consult with the leader of the Republican Party in Philadelphia, Mr. Harris, with respect to this legislation?

Mr. SMITH. No, Mr. Speaker, I did not consult with the leader of the Republican Party in any way whatsoever about this legislation.

Mr. ROSE. Does the gentleman know whether any other Member of the Philadelphia delegation in the House had occasion to discuss this legislation with him?

Mr. SMITH. No, Mr. Speaker, nor any other Members of the House.

Mr. ROSE. Whose baby is this?

Mr. SMITH. This happens to be one of a number of laws which have been passed—one of five or six laws which have been passed during this term and this would be one that applies to cities of the first class, and Philadelphia is the only city of the first class. This bill is only for the duration of the war—the duration and six months.

Mr. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to speak upon this measure today, but I feel that this is an opportunity for me individually to register my utter disgust at what has been going on in this session in the House.

We came here in the early part of January, I as well as the rest of the Members of the House and listened to the Governor state that this would not be a political session of the House——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SALUS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. SALUS. The gentleman is not speaking on the question that is now before the House, but is going into other legislation of the past.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. Will the gentleman please confine himself to the question before the House.

Mr. ROSE. The gentleman who just rose to the point of order I think is most skillful in debating measures coming before this House, and has gone well around the bush on every measure we have had up here. I am confining my discussion solely to this bill.

I just want to point out to the Members of the House that here again we have another evidence of lack of consideration by the Republican party of the needs of the people of Philadelphia. I know full well that the Republican Members of this House have had an opportunity at this session to do things that will be beneficial to the city, but they have played nothing but partisian politics and have been totally negligent in considering their needs.

I want to point out to the Members of the House that I think the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, has indicated in reply to my interrogation——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WATERHOUSE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. WATERHOUSE. Mr. Speaker, are we going to listen to partisan issues or are we going to listen to the question before the House?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has requested the gentleman to confine himself to the question. Will the gentleman please confine his remarks to the bill.

Mr. ROSE. In reply to my interrogation the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, had indicated that this was what he termed a duration measure, in other words, the provisions of this act were for the duration of the war and six months thereafter. I want to point out to the Members of the House that there is a greater need today to register than there is in normal times. Many of the people in Philadelphia are engaged in defense work today, in which they spend long hours and have done an excellent job. We of Philadelphia are proud of the achievements and the accomplishments of our people in defense plants. They have been compelled because of the housing situation in Philadelphia to move frequently, and because of the action of this Legislature in the dying moments of the Legislature in the last session have not been able to register by merely signing the change of address cards, so we want to give them the chance to exercise their right of franchise by re-registering, and here again we meet opposition. Now, I am not stupid enough to believe that this bill is not going to pass. I know full well that you have the votes over there, but I want to warn you on the other side that the people of Philadelphia look to us for legislation, constructive legislation, and when the soldiers return from the army they will find that all they got from the Legislature in addition to some other things, was a bill denying some of our people the right to register so they could exercise their franchise and vote.

Mr. MYHAN. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry that I have to take your time at this time, but it is very obvious that the bill before the House is a bill to deprive the people of Philadelphia of their fundamenal right to vote, and I am going to ask the Members of the House, in consideration of this fundamental right——

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I want to say to the Members of this House that I have endeavored to conduct the affairs of this Houese with propriety and celerity, but of they want to start inkwells rattling and make it impossible for Members to speak and receive attention, I can guarantee them that they will stay here until Monday and maybe Tuesday. We have been fairly decent over here, but if they want to get up and walk out, let them walk out.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will guarantee the same thing. Order must be maintained. We all realize that possibly we are a little tired and our nerves are on edge, but will the Members please bear in mind that we have a job to do?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to concur in the statements of the gentleman from Cambria. As I stated yesterday, we have tried to conserve the time of the Members of the House, and I am sure that by the tactics of the kind that he has described we will not be able to expedite the business before the House. I would urge the Members of the House to please be as quiet as possible and not do things in a way to disturb the nerves and the work of the Members.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask a question of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Dare.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. O'DARE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I have been delegated by the Democratic Members of the Legislature from Philadelphia to inquire of the gentleman from Philadelphia—and I am not smiling at him—is it not true that he did consult with Mr. Smith on the merits and the demerits of Senate Bill 502?

Mr. O'DARE. I did not.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Cullen, Gore and Heatherington asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 3, by striking out the heavy faced bracket before the word "and" in line 28, and in line 29 after the word "six"; also on page 4, by striking out the heavy faced brackets before the word "months" in line 1, and after the word "years" in line 2; also on page 5, by striking out the heavy faced brackets before the word "until" in line 3, and after the word "years" in line 6; also in line 23, by striking out the heavy faced bracket before the word "and" and after the word "municipal".

Amend Section 3, page 9, line 14, by striking out the heavy faced bracket before the word "section"; also in line 16, by striking out the heavy faced bracket after the word "to".

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. CHUDOFF. Mr. Speaker, House Bill 1082 also affects the registration of voters in Philadelphia. For the benefit of the Members of the House I believe in order to understand our objection to concurrence in the Senate amendments it will be necessary for me to go into the history of this bill.

In Philadelphia the Republican and Democratic Members of the Registration Commission sat down to discuss certain needed changes to the Permanent Registration Act covering cities of the first class, and it seems that everybody was in agreement concerning these changes. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, thereupon introduced House Bill 1082, which passed this House without a dissenting vote. We felt that 1082 was exactly what the people of Philadelphia and the Registration Commission in Philadelphia, both Republicans and Democrats wanted, for the purpose of improving registration in the city of Philadelphia. However, when the bill was sent to the Senate—and I might say through no fault of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, certain Senate amendments were placed in the bill by the Republican state administration in violation of the agreement between the Democrats and the Republicans of Philadelphia.

If I may quote my good friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, we all love our city, and I believe that the Members of the House will agree that we were able to get together on most of the vital and important measures concerning Philadelphia. The Democrats of Philadelphia fell that it is just as important to have an accurate and an easy registration law as any other type of law in the State of Pennsylvania. In spite of this agreement, and in spite of the fact that Mr. Smith had agreed to these amendments to the registration act in Philadelphia the administration, in violation of that agreement, have placed in these amendments. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that the only way this situation can be adequately handled and the only way that the affairs of the Registration Commission of the City of Philadelphia can be carried out is by non-concurring in these amendments, put the bill in Conference Committee and bring the thing out to everybody's satisfaction.

Mr. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I think Mr. Chudoff used rather harsh words "violation of the agreement". The agreement was on the thirty-five day period. When the bill went to the Senate, we just passed it, it was a fifty day bill. To make the bill a good bill we had to inject a clause from the Mallory Bill into 1082, which was to make it constitutional; we cannot have one bill saying thirty-five days and the other fifty days. That was the only reason it was injected into the 1082 bill.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Smith, refers to an agreement. I suppose there were several agreements on this particular matter. I suppose as originally introduced in this House it was a good bill. As the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Chudoff, pointed out, it had several features which would promote the efficient operation of the Registration Commission in Philadelphia, to which the Democratic minority on ths side agreed. Through some gesture or through some trick the Senate inserted the amendments which changed the last day for registration from thirty-five to fifty days. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, if they really want to make this a bill in accordance with the original agreement they should have deleted the reference to the last day for registration in this particular bill. There is no particular reason why you must have two bills referring to the last day for registration. I am sure that the Attorney General's office and the Reference Bureau could very readily reconcile the situation by accepting the 502 Bill so far as the registration date is concerned and accepting House Bill 1082 so far as the administrative changes are concerned. I ask that the Members on this side vote to non-concur.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Section 3 The amount of the foregoing appropriation to be expended for or upon any project shall be subject to the approval of the Governor

Section 4 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, we have now arrived at the beautification stage of the legislative journey, the elaboration of our Capitol Hill set-up and the appropriation of some six million five hundred thousand dollars for various un-named purposes here at Capitol Hill. As I recall the bills, we can build libraries, museum or memorials to William Penn and we can make Harrisburg a more delightful city in which to live, the capitol a more beautiful and luxurious place in which to legislate. We have not had money for a great many necessary enterprises. His Excellency the Governor has told you how pinched his exchequer is, he could not give the school teachers what they wanted, he could not put into the second injury fund what ought to have been there, but we have six million five hundred thousand dollars to spend here sometime for un-named purposes in connection with Capitol Park extension.

I do not doubt that that is a delightful bit of medicine for you to swallow—a delightful bit of medicine, six million five hundred thousand dollars, and at a time when there is so much money needed for necessary enterprises. Now, that becomes a matter of judgment and of conscience. We do not have the votes but we do file our objections, we do say that this expenditure is a denial of needed enterprises—we do not have enough money with which to build institutions for the wards of the state, but we have six million five hundred thousand dollars to expand Capitol Park. There is not enough money properly to take care of the lame and the halt and the blind, but we have six and a half million dollars for Capitol Park extension. All we can do is protest and carry the case to the country, appeal to the people against such a profligate expenditure at this time of six million five hundred thousand dollars for Capitol Park extension. It is a beautiful name, and it is a beautiful sum of money.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to hold the Members very long before recess for dinner, but I would like to say briefly that two years ago we voted an appropriation. At that time it was not all voted for the purpose of Capitol Park Extension. We found in the appropriation that it did not carry some of the provisions necessary in order to carry out some of the laws that we passed two years ago. The matter of change of water lines, facility lines and condemnation of land in order to carry out what we already have placed on the statute books. All we are trying to do in this Legislature is to make the necessary appropriation so that we can carry out the provisions of legislation passed and now on the books.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. "For the construction of new buildings including a memorial building to honor Willian Penn." Was that one of the necessary things that was included in the general program?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I will admit to the gentleman that that is a part that was recommended by the Governor in his message, a new building which would not become a part of Capitol Park Extension, but the main appropriation and the plans for the buildings were provided in previous legislation.

Mr. ANDREWS. "Libraries, museums" is that an unnamed amount, or is that in the program? Is that money to be spent for relocation of something or improvement of something?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct, it is for relocation and removal of the present library building to new facilities. That is a part of the program.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, isn't it for relocation of water lines, sewage and sanitary facilities? You are not going to spend six and a half million dollars for that.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker, we will not.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LEVY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to make a very serious presentation, and I would like to have absolute quiet.

We from Philadelphia, both Democratic and Republican members have been rather friendly with a gentleman of this House whom we have met on many occasions on the streets of Harrisburg in the far flung hours of the early morning. We have grown to like him, I might even say to love him and respect him, yet the gentleman has one great failing—he brags a little too much.

Only the other day there came to us information that the gentleman from Erie was presented by one of his children with a grandson. I understand that the little tot has now reached the ripe age of three weeks. As I said before, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has been doing a lot of bragging, and the story is current, and there is much foundation for it, that after the baby came back from the hospital, this little tiny tot, the gentleman from Erie proceeded to take the little baby to all the night spots in Erie in order that he might prematurely obtain a very high social education.

In a very serious mood, Mr. Speaker, and as I said before, on behalf of all the Members of the House from Philadelphia, both Democrats and Republicans, we wish to make a presentation with the view, and seriously so, that the gentleman from Erie will remain at home following the close of the session with this little tiny tot, instead of going the way of most of the night lifers in Erie.

Mr. Speaker, I desire to have the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Dalrymple present himself in the well of the House.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I always understood that it was one of the cardinal rules of this House that one gentleman never saw another gentleman when he was "out".

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I am pleasurably surprised myself that we have in addition to the present to the gentleman from Erie, also one for the grandson. Here it is, the biggest all-day sucker ever made in Philadelphia. Also one for the infant.

Mr. DALRYMPLE. Mr. Speaker, particularly the Democrats and the Republicans from Philadelphia, I must disagree with the gentleman who made the presentation. So many of the members have criticized me for looking so young and being a grandfather. They say it is due to the early hours I keep, going to bed early and getting up early. (Laughter). That laughter was uncalled for. I do want to say that the gentleman must have been in Erie if he knew that I was in the night clubs.

I am going to present to the grandson this all-day sucker. I think it is an all-life sucker according to its size, and by the time he gets through with it he may be a Member of the House also.

And then again I must say that I must watch his registration so that he runs on the proper ticket and not do like these Philadelphia folks.

However, I do wish to thank the Members and the gentleman from Philadelphia. I am sure that the father and mother of this boy will appreciate the same when I present it to them when I arrive home in Erie. If you don't get me out of here soon he may be a lot older than you think he is before we get through.

I want to say thanks. It is a very beautiful thing. I don't think I'll start on mine, but if you will come to Erie I'll treat you right; I'll take you to the night clubs and show you a real time, not only the Members from Philadelphia, but the rest of you.

I can remember the mother of this boy when I held her in my arms—it doesn't seem to be so long, but it is many years ago. I am sure she will appreciate this little presentation also. She is a sweet girl—she is just like her father—she is as pure as the morning's dew. That is another example to the father. Then too her mother is a grand woman also. She has been with us all these years and took care of these children and has done a marvelous job in spite of her husband being a Member of this distinguished body.
